

NIGHT EDITION

CHIEF'S TELEPHONE

Transfer of It is Now a Matter of Dispute

While it is not thought that Supt. Welch is anxious about having a telephone in his house, the board of police has requested the New England Telephone & Telegraph company that the telephone in Supt. Brogan's house be transferred to the house of the superintendent, but found that an order from Mayor Brown stood in the way.

The telephone company has an agreement with the city to furnish one free telephone for every 2000 inhabitants in the city, and as far as can be learned has always carried out its part of the agreement. The distribution of these free telephones is handled by the mayor.

A phone in the residence of the superintendent of police has been one of the many free telephones given the city by the telephone company.

When ex-Supt. Moffatt was superintendent he had a free telephone at his residence in London street. When he was placed on the pension roll the board of police wanted the telephone installed at the residence of the then Acting Supt. Welch, but the latter stated that he did not want to have it put in as he would prefer to wait until a superintendent had been named.

When the temporary board named Lieut. Brogan as acting superintendent, the phone was transferred from Mr. Moffatt's to Lieut. Brogan's house in High street, and while it has not been listed in the book the number was 2690.

Last week Supt. Welch was promoted to the position he is holding at the present time and Wednesday the clerk of the board of police at the request of the board notified the telephone company to transfer the free telephone in Lieut. Brogan's house to the house occupied by Supt. Welch.

As it is necessary to get the approval of the mayor in such matters, a representative of the telephone company called on the mayor, and it is alleged that the latter refused to sanction the transfer, stating that he (the mayor) handled all the free telephones and that if Supt. Welch wanted one at his residence he would have to pay for it.

The mayor was asked by a Sun representative whether he had refused to sanction the transfer of the telephone, and replied that he had heard nothing about it.

Martin and President Ullman of the chamber of commerce, made a tour of the city's business and industrial sections in automobiles and were received at Yale by President Hadley, who, in a brief address, presented Baron Shibuzawa, head of the party, with one of the bronze medals struck off to commemorate Yale's bicentennial several years ago.

The members of the party were each presented with a souvenir pamphlet issued by the chamber of commerce, descriptive of the city's activities and bearing the colors of the United States and Japan. The party left at 11 o'clock for Providence.

IN POLICE COURT

Judge Hadley Discharged Defendant in Horse Case

In the police court this morning, Judge Hadley presiding, the horse case of Donlan vs. Donnelly was heard, and after a lengthy hearing the court decided that the defendant was not guilty of any criminal intent in taking Donlan's horse, and, therefore, found him not guilty of the complaint charging him with the larceny of a horse valued at $25 and Mr. Donnelly was discharged. The court said in his findings: "If the defendant acted with an honest intent, honestly believing that in accordance with the wages he had a right to take, the horse then he is not criminally liable."

The facts in the case were reported in yesterday's Sun, and the testimony this morning was practically the same. From the testimony it would appear that John T. Donlan is in the produce business, and that the defendant, James J. Donnelly, conducts a coal and wood business at the corner of Gorham and South Highland streets. Saturday night Mr. Donnelly got a new horse, and in conversation with Mr. Donlan, allowed that he had the best horse, and the outcome of the whole thing was that a wager was made between the two men, to the effect that whichever one could drive to Lawrence and back in the shortest space of time would own the other's horse. The race was arranged for Monday afternoon, postponed to Tuesday morning, and again postponed to Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, when Donnelly made a flying start, but Donlan did not start, finding it impossible to get a driver.

Donnelly covered the distance in something over four hours and when he returned to Humphrey's stable on Gorham street against the directions of Mr. Humphrey, he took Donlan's horse, and Donlan made the complaint which was aired in the police court this morning with the result of the defendant's discharge.

Threat to Kill—Vasilios Christofilas threatened to stab and kill Casius Linias on Market street yesterday, and he was ordered to pay the costs of court and to give a bond to keep the peace for the term of six months, the bond to be in the sum of $100.

Juvenile Session—At 9.30 o'clock this morning Judge Hadley held the weekly session of the juvenile court. As usual the session was largely attended by state and city authorities, and by the parents of some of the delinquents. In all there were 14 juveniles before the court. Most of the cases were of a minor character, and caused by reading dime novels and smoking cigarettes. Seven of those before the court were placed on probation, and the remainder were sent to the Lyman school and the truant school.

Albert F. Poole has been before the court twice within the present year and as he was apparently in need of a rest he was sent to the Lowell jail for the term of 30 days. Henry Trickett was also given a 30 days' vacation at the same institution.

Charles F. Wakefield was fined $5 for second offense of drunkenness. There were nine $2 drunks and seven on releases.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The opening trading in the stock market was rather quiet and the small changes were irregular. There were 1800 shares of Wabash preferred dealt in at 54 and 54½, compared with 62½ last night. St. Louis Southwestern and Interborough Metropolitan rose ½.

Railroads proved fatal and new low levels for prices were reached before noon. Most of the prominent active stocks sold lower than before yesterday's late rally. Reading declined ¼, United States Steel 2½, and Union Pacific 2½. Bonds were irregular.

Selling orders increased in volume and prices declined sharply. Fear of tight money and near pressure was responsible for the fall. United States Steel broke 2½, Reading 1½, Union Pacific and Amalgamated Copper 1½, and a dozen more leading stocks a point. A good fractional rally occurred when the shorts covered.

The market did not recover much ground when the pressure subsided. Prices ruled near the low point around 1 o'clock and the trading was very dull.

The Steel Stocks—Steel today was not as active as might be expected and the slight wane in buying was the consequence of advance considering the advance in this stock which is expected before next Tuesday, and the break to come as an intermediate advance. Prices were still a seller in the London market and no peculiar stop in the sales could be noticed.

Exchange is Firmer—The exchange seems firmer today and the restraining influences are thought to be the local bank statement due tomorrow and the Berlin bank rate due Monday. An advance in the Berlin rate is expected as it is considered a strong possibility on account of the England increase.

Money On Call—NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Noon. Money on call firm at 1½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 5 to 5½ per cent. Exchange $379,503,143; balances $11,678,949.

Boston Copper Market—BOSTON, Oct. 22.—Local copper stocks opened quietly today but soon became very active with prices softening in sympathy with the New York list.

Bankers Agree—NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—New York bankers are entirely agreed as to the influence of New York credit operations having forced the sensational advances of the last two weeks in the bank of England official discount rate. Current estimates of New York borrowings from foreign banks for the season, as $500,000,000 for the season, Jacob Schiff asserts that such exaggeration has attended these estimates. It is a fact, however, that New York clearing house banks contracted the loan account.

Clearing House Statement—BOSTON, Oct. 22.—Clearing house statement: Exchanges, $28,812,954; balances, $1,192,013.

JUSTICE GAYNOR

Says That the People Should Rule

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—With New York's municipal election only twelve days distant, the campaign yesterday reached the stage of optimistic estimates. The following were the "probabilities" estimated by campaign managers for the three candidates for the mayoralty:

Bannard, republican-fusion, by 40,000.

Gaynor, democrat, by 75,000.

Hearst, independent, by 80,000.

The confidence expressed by all the campaign managers was pointed out by many observers last night as an indication of the non-partisan support for which the candidates look and as a sign of the breaking down to a great extent of party lines in the consideration of New York's municipal problem.

There were more than a hundred minor meetings in various parts of New York yesterday, with a plethora of car-fall oratory on almost every important street corner in the more congested residence districts.

Justice Gaynor toured the east side by automobile, repeating his previous attacks on Hearst and Bannard, and emphasizing particularly his plea for more "personal liberty" and for a liberal construction of police laws.

"The people's slogan in this campaign," he said, "ought to be 'let us alone.' There has been too much censorship in New York city, too much government by the club and night stick. The people should rule. They should be allowed to live and move and have their being without the continual obnoxious interference of the city authorities."

Mr. Bannard was heard last night on Staten Island, the most remote of New York city's boroughs.

"I am a business man," he told his hearers. "I was never a candidate for office and have no political ambition. If elected, I shall do nothing else but work faithfully at my new job and try to leave a good name when the four years are over. That is my whole ambition. The ticket upon which I run represents the outcry and indignation of the entire city against Tammany hall. Tammany stands for organized graft. Let us crush the graft and try a business man for mayor."

RIZZO IS GUILTY

Of Murder in the First Degree

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Theodore Rizzo, who has been on trial since Monday on the charge of murdering Theresa Prosio and Freddy Infusino in the Eagle street "grill" on the night of Sept. 12, was convicted of murder in the first degree yesterday. After an announcement of the verdict which was reached after a little over an hour's deliberation, Rizzo said he was ready for sentence to be pronounced and Justice Rogers set the week of Nov. 21 as the time for his execution. The convicted man was taken to Auburn prison last night.

Rizzo displayed no concern over his fate. While the jury was deliberating he slept and some effort was required to awaken him when he was summoned to the court room to learn the verdict.

It became known yesterday that the prisoner made a confession to his attorney, J. A. Goldstone, just previous to the trial. It is said that he was anxious to die.

After sentence had been pronounced, one of the guards asked Rizzo why he murdered the children.

"I don't know; I was drunk," Rizzo replied.

ASKS $20,000

Woman Alleges Breach of Promise

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—An attachment for $20,000 on the property of Frank A. Appleton, a lawyer with offices in Barristers' hall and living at 146 Massachusetts avenue was filed yesterday at the sheriff's office in Suffolk county by counsel for Miss Sarah Waters of Everett. The attachment is made in a suit for breach of contract. It being claimed by Miss Waters that Appleton promised to marry her and did not do so.

The writ is returnable in the Middlesex county court early in December, Miss Waters is represented by Ex-Mayor T. J. Boynton of Everett and William E. Weeks.

Mr. Appleton said last evening that whatever he knew about the alleged attachment concerning himself had been told him during the evening by newspaper reporters. "If there is any attachment there is no ground for it," he continued. "Never has there been anything approaching an engagement between myself and any woman by the name of Waters."

SENATOR JOHNSON

DIED FROM AN ATTACK OF NEPHRITIS

FARGO, N. D., Oct. 22.—United States Senator Martin M. Johnson (republican) of this state, died last night from an attack of acute nephritis at his hotel in this city.

A week ago he submitted to a second operation for a nasal trouble and was thought to be doing well. He had been a sufferer from kidney disease for years and had complained during the last two days, but reports yesterday were reassuring. He was suddenly attacked late yesterday and death soon followed.

Senator Johnson was 59 years old, a native of Wisconsin and a graduate of Wisconsin university. He was eight years a member of the lower branch of congress.

Senator Johnson's death leaves a vacancy to be filled by appointment by Governor Burke, a democrat.

"STRIKE" ENDED

Students to Return to University

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 22.—After a "strike" in which nearly every student at the University of Maine, with the exception of the football squad, had remained away from recitations for nearly two weeks because some of their number had been expelled by the faculty for alleged participation in hazing, the undergraduates yesterday received word that temporarily at least they had gained their point and today they will resume their studies. This development came about through the efforts of the Alumni association who yesterday received word from E. D. Winslow of Portland, president of the board of trustees, that he had agreed to call a meeting of the trustees within two weeks and had guaranteed that the suspended men should have a fair hearing. No action will be taken against any student for past offenses in regard to hazing or of the trouble which has resulted therefrom, and the students will not be censured in any way for failure to report in their class rooms. The men whose suspension in the first place precipitated the trouble, will be permitted to remain on the campus to have access to the library, and to have the opportunity of tutoring until their hearing takes place, so that they will not fall behind in their college work. Ever since the "strike" an alumni committee of which W. R. Pattengall is chairman, has worked with the students, the faculty, and the trustees for a reconciliation, but had made apparently little progress until today.

INJURIES MAY BE FATAL
ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 22.—The condition of Midshipman Earl D. Wilson, quarterback of the navy football team, who is in a serious condition as a result of injuries received in the game with Villa Nova on Saturday, remains about the same. The surgeons consider his death only a question of time.

The authorities at the Naval academy were notified yesterday that the corps of cadets at West Point have ordered flowers sent to the bedside of the injured navy player.

Simply because any woman may judge of the values of such goods. The novelties from foreign manufacturers offer no such chance for our customers to gauge our low-priced mastery. However, the exclusive fabrics are relatively as cheap as their humbler American cousins.

MY RECOMMENDATION

New York's Swell Tailor's Stock is Sold to Mitchell for Cash

How He Does It

The Alden H. Weed Co., 315 Fifth Ave., corner 32nd St., New York City, doing a half million dollar business in jobbing high class woolens to the leading tailors and fine clothing trade of the country, have made plans for immediate retirement. They had run through an honorable career of 35 years, during which they had inseparably identified their name with the finest line of woolens produced throughout the world.

After a dicker which has lasted several weeks, I have been able to close a deal whereby I secure their entire immense stock.

With these goods on my tables today, I make a special appeal to my old customers to come in and see the woolen purchase that I regard as the greatest event in the history of Mitchell.

While the Alden H. Weed Company designed many of their own cloths, they also were importers from the largest foreign houses and much of this stock bears the stamp of ROBERTS CLAY MARTINS, the great west of England weavers, and other mill men of similar reputation.

These are fabrics that the ordinary tailor could not afford to handle at less than $25 to $40 for Suit or Overcoat. My price, irrespective of the values of the goods will be

Overcoat or Suit $12.50
To Your Measure

TO THE SKEPTICS:

For more than twelve years I have appeared before the reading public of all New England—as the leading low-price tailor of the country. During this time it has been my privilege to have secured possession of the stocks—"bankrupt," "assigned," etc.—of so many others of the tailoring craft that to chronicle all here would necessitate a page in itself. Each has served its purpose. Rungs in the ladder of success, which every progressive merchant steadfastly ascends—they have served to carry me to the high place I now occupy in the tailoring trade of the country. But I am not satisfied. It seems to me that every man who reads—who wears clothes—who wishes to save money on them—should by this time be a Mitchell customer. That they are not, I can only lay to one thing—SKEPTICISM. How can I quell this doubt? How can I demonstrate to you, without having you enter the store, that each stock that I buy is exactly as I represent it to be? I can think of but one way. After telling you the name and address of its previous owner—it is placed in my open doorway, where you can see and handle it without solicitation. Your own common sense will tell you that my valuation of it is not inflated. Your good judgment will speak out and tell you that when these goods are sold to you at Mitchell prices they are bargains that are positively unmatchable.

TEXTILE WORKERS

Opposed to Employment of Children in Cotton Mills

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Severely castigating Dr. C. A. Stiles of the United States public health and marine hospital service for defending before the Southern Textile Association meeting at Raleigh, N. C., the employment of children in the cotton mills of the south, Dr. C. Roberts, chairman of a labor committee of the Central labor union of this city, yesterday stirred up strong indignation among delegates to the United Textile Workers of America, assembled in convention in this city.

Mr. Roberts expressed his surprise that a public officer, paid from the public revenue, should appear before a convention of employers of labor and undertake to defend the system of child labor in the southern states. Mr. Roberts advocated action by the convention in opposition to any attempt to further extend and to perpetuate the employment of child labor in cotton mills. Such employment, he said, merely tended to displace adults.

"I love the southland," said Mr. Roberts, "and I would do almost anything in my power to have the cotton of the south manufactured in the south. But there are prices I would not pay for such a commercial victory. I would not give our little children as the price of success. We know that the houses of these people are unsanitary. Here in the District of Columbia it is a daily occurrence to hear white and black men and women asking the judge of the police court to send them to the workhouse because they would be better off there than in their own homes. The workhouse is more sanitary and they are better fed there than in their homes. Our effort has been and will continue to be to try to improve their homes."

Mr. Roberts favored the policy of breaking away from all political parties to obtain the ends that were being fought for by unionists. In North Carolina, he said, legislative methods were the most efficient means for shortening the hours in the mills and he thought they should be used. In the breaking away from old political parties he saw the greatest encouragement of success along those lines.

Pres. J. C. Colpitts of the Central Labor union of this city, addressed the association. Referring to suggestions of manufacturers that the product of cotton mills be curtailed, he declared that if that were done the textile workers must be paid more money for the curtailed product.

What might be meted out to an animated debate among the delegates. The general sentiment favored depriving seceding unions of all manner of benefits on the part of the Federation of Labor, Central Labor unions and other national organizations of textile workers. Any sympathy given those seceding and independent unions, it was argued, only encouraged them in their efforts to disorganize the labor union movement. So generally was this plan approved that a resolution declaring the sentiments of the association in favor of withholding all sympathy and support from independent unions was adopted unanimously.

Thomas Tracey, secretary of the union, declared that the American Federation, called attention to an article appearing in an August magazine which said that the employment of child labor in southern cotton mills and that their lives were slowly being seeped out by the hook worm disease. Mr. Tracey declared that the new labor department of the Federation of Labor has four hundred thousand union men and women in affiliation with it, and he expected soon to see added to that number at least 200,000 more workers. The Federation of Labor, he believed, had the right to patronize or withdraw its patronage singly or collectively from all persons or firms, whenever it pleased. He advocated the building up of the principle of patronizing on the basis of which the union label was placed.

A universal label, he thought, would be eventually adopted.

The association adopted a resolution favoring an eight hour workday for all silk workers in the United States. The recommendation was made by the Silk Workers union of Paterson, N. J., where 55 hours now constitutes a work's week. This action will give the silk workers of Paterson the support of the association in their efforts to establish an eight hour day. A resolution was also adopted favoring the elimination of opaque glass windows in silk factories.

JIMMIE GARDNER

Writes Home From His Training Quarters

Down in Boston someone has circulated the report abroad that Jimmie Gardner is not in good condition for his coming match with Bill McKinnon at the Army club next Tuesday night, when all the local sports will go below to see their favorite trim the Roxbury boy for the third time.

The report as to Gardner's condition is about as the report recently circulated that he was killed in Omaha three years after he had walked out of the Sun office in Lowell.

An idea of Gardner's condition may best be obtained from the following letter written by Jimmie from his training quarters at the celebrated Fenwick Inn, in Middleton, to a friend in the Sun office. The letter reads as follows:

"I thought I would write you a few lines to let you know what I am doing in preparation for my match with Bill McKinnon next Tuesday evening. In the first place, I realize that while I have twice received the decision over McKinnon, he is up and coming all the time and has it on me for weight and hence I am not taking any chances. This is one of the most beautiful spots that I have ever encountered in my travels and you know I have trained all over the country. It makes an ideal training quarters and aside from that the matter of auto parties and travelers in this section of the state. The country here is of historic interest, the scenery most pleasing, while the inn, its equipment and service could not be improved upon. In my camp this time I have by brothers Billie and Mike, K. G. Goodman, whom everybody knows, and Jack Fitzgerald, a noted boxing instructor from West Newton. Martin Cahole is coming down to box with me and so you see I will have plenty of good ones to help me in my work of training. I feel like a two-year-old, and we have a happy family here. I saw by the papers that I was knocked out in Omaha a few nights ago. Say, that was the longest distance knocked out on record, and I tell you it's an awful wallop that can trim a man at one thousand miles. If you see George Charette tell him to get that fellow in the navy, for he's not those new guys that carry 12 miles beaten by 988 miles. Make a punch at a man in Omaha and knock him out in Lowell, Mass. There's certainly something to that wallop. If Cook and Peay had that reach they could snuck the pole down here overnight and show each other up without any further debate on the question. Well, old pal, I'll expect to see you at the ring-side next Tuesday night. I have asked Mr. W. G. Harding to let in my corner. Regards to the boys.

Sincerely,
"Jimmie Gardner."

FOOTBALL NOTES

One disadvantage smaller teams experience yearly is that they have to play more games on foreign fields than the bigger fellows. The big teams won't come to them, so they have to go to the mountain. There are reasons why they aren't entirely averse to that, seeing that money is necessary to conduct football campaigns, and the shows of war come more readily in the football arena. So the smaller teams are accustomed to hearding their lions in their dens and are not fazed at all at playing amid hostile surroundings. The staid Carlisle Indians do all their playing of big games from home, and the position they have earned high up in the football ranks is all the more creditable on that account.

Contrast the schedule of the Indians and Pennsylvania this year. The red men play six games away from home in succession: New York, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington, New York and St. Louis on successive playing days. As for the Pennsylvania, they have a more sane schedule. This season every game is a home game. That's as unusual in football as goals from the 110 yard line. Probably the only traveling the Quakers will do will be to a nearby retreat to tone up for the Michigan and Cornell games.

Dartmouth has to go away from home three times, to Amherst, Princeton and Cambridge; the Princeton trip being anything but a soft one on account of the distance and change of cars. Brown makes four trips—Philadelphia, Cambridge, New Haven and New York—but all within easy striking distance of Providence. Cornell has a couple of hard trips, one to Cambridge, the other to Philadelphia. Yale and Princeton go away twice each, while the West Point game is the only out of town contest on the Harvard schedule.

A play in the Indian-Syracuse game recalled to one expert the split play used by Chadwick and Metcalf of Yale against Princeton and Harvard with distinct success. The Indians used the variations, and, according to the expert, "the hole was always open as it was against Princeton and Harvard." As this man saw it, the quarterback passed the ball to the right halfback, who passed it to Houser, the fullback. Houser and his interferers went for the hole in a compact group, the fullback cutting away just as the line was reached. The interference shot through between tackle and guard, but Houser made a straight plunge of it, and examined through a gap between center and guard. Often he got clear through, so much so that he almost fell from his own momentum, the Syracuseans being fooled by the interference coming through at another place and rushing over to plug up the spot where they thought the ball was coming. It was an attacking device well covered up, the fake interference being deceptive and the double pass behind the line complicating the maneuver.

The game was one of a number this fall in which the tackling was very poor. Among teams from which better work in tackling was to be expected who have given most exhibitions are Syracuse, Princeton and West Point. Syracuse against the Indians, Princeton against Fordham and West Point against Yale. With the offenders on those days diving tackles were a lost art.

With the large number of games played in which one side doesn't score the strategic value of a goal from the field is practically as great as it was before its value in points was reduced from four to three. The play is deciding in many games as it ever did, and in contexts of consequence this season no less than 25 field goals have been kicked. There were few games in previous years in which eight points resulting from goals from the field defeated a team which made six points from a touchdown, though the possibility of such an occurrence and the theory that one touchdown was deserving of as much reward as two goals from the field were justification for the change.

Great advance was being made in field goal proficiency, and the frequency of them this year shows that progress is likely to continue. There appears to be no reason to fear that this attractive addition of individual skill will suffer because of counting less, and besides there is always the chance of two field goals beating a touchdown. There is no chance of points being lost when a field goal has been made, but the touchdown must be followed by the placement goal to make it the equal as a point producer of two field goals. The committee might have gone further and differentiated between the value of a drop kick and a field goal from a place kick.

USED A RINGER

To Win the Race on Tuesday

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 22.—That "W. H. Pointer," the horse that won the 2:30 pace here Tuesday, is really Hal L., was the decision of the judges yesterday. In consequence W. H. Cartwright of Barnstable, W. Va., owner of the horse, has been expelled, together with the animal, and Carl H. Hunter of Harrisville, Pa., the driver, is suspended, pending action by the board of review.

Hal L. has a mark of 2:11 1-4, made in a recent meet at Hagerstown, Md. Dawson Dillon, driven by Pittman, was awarded first place in Tuesday's 2:30 race, as a result of the disqualification of "W. H. Pointer."

The enthusiasts who went out to Millisgrove yesterday afternoon saw some of the best racing of the meet. Four events were finished and two heats run in a fifth before the judges called it off because of the sundown rain. Two of the races were won in straight heats.

The most interesting feature of the afternoon was the 2:30 heat. Ina Gray had two heats to her credit, having taken them in handy fashion Wednesday, and was the favorite when the fourth heat was called. She broke badly, however. The first time around yesterday and was never in the hunt after that. Lella Morse, a sturdy mare, surprised the talent by making the pace and taking three heats in succession in fast time.

Northern Spy, well played to win the 2:14 pace, came up to expectations and took the third and final heat by beating Bert Nuttall out by a nose.

Kellerville Lad, who went poorly in the 2:14 pace, woke up in the 2:12 event and gathered in three straight heats. Kingsley came first in the 2:19 trot by winning three of four heats.

Can Make His Own Terms With Johnson

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—"Jeff can make his own terms with Johnson. All we want to do is to show that Jack is the better man." This was the statement made yesterday by George Little, manager of Johnson, who will depart for the east today and meet Jeffries.

Johnson was arrested again yesterday. Just before the parade, one of the celebrations of Portia week, was scheduled to march down Market street the colored boxer whirled into sight and drove down the street at high speed. A policeman jumped on the step of the car as it slowed up at a crossing and informed the occupants that they were under arrest for speeding.

Jeffries said he would fight Jack Johnson and had no doubt at all of winning. Referring to questions, Jeffries said he did not take much stock in the Johnson-Ketchel fight and evidently considered Ketchel outclassed.

"I am ready to fight Johnson tomorrow," said Jeff. "My condition is top. I want to sign articles right away and end this matter."

Jeffries never looked better. He weighs 225 pounds.

AUTO NEWS

DRIVERS TRY OUT THE VANDERBILT COURSE
Four drivers who are to pilot cars in the Vanderbilt cup and Motor Parkway Sweepstakes race on October 30 were out for practice over the race circuit in Nassau county early yesterday morning. These were three of the Chalmers-Detroit team—Bert Dingley, Joe Matson and William Knipper, and Hugh A. Harding, who is to drive the Apperson "Jack Rabbit." All of the three Chalmers-Detroit drivers used 30 horse-power cars, all of them bearing No. 42 on the radiator fronts. Harding made several runs at a comparatively moderate pace in an Apperson touring car, wishing to learn the course and not attempting any speed.

The No. 42 on the radiators of the Chalmers-Detroit proved rather mystifying to the spectators gathered at the grand stand until they discovered that all three cars had the same number painted on them. One of the little "Blue Birds" dashed past the grand stand, and when apparently the same car showed up again after an interval of but a few minutes the amateur clockers thought that either the car had made a new world's record for the 12.64 miles of the circuit or that the driver had taken a short cut back to the grand stand.

Knipper made the fastest round of the practice covering the course in 12 1/2 minutes. Dingley and Matson each made rounds in about 13 minutes. Matson had to stop to replace a punctured tire on one of his rounds, and Knipper stopped near the grand stand on his last round as his gasoline supply had been exhausted. It was the first time that Dingley, Knipper and Harding had been out for practice. Joe Matson had been out early on Tuesday morning, having been the first driver to try out the new circuit.

Fred J. Wagner, the official starter and representative for the Atlanta Automobile association, which has just finished the construction of the big two mile automobile racing track at Atlanta, Tex., for the season Wednesday night. He was accompanied by George Robertson and Charles Basle, who will make a two day test of the speed possibilities of the new track and determine if any alterations are needed to make the track a safe one for drivers. Robertson will use the 30 horse-power Simplex with which he won the Fairmount park and Lowell races and Basle will use a Renault.

BOXING GOSSIP

The greatest confidence exists in the ranks of supporters of Bill McKinnon that their idol will score a victory over Jimmy Gardner when this pair of stars meet at the Armory club Tuesday night. The pertinacity of McKinnon's campaign in keeping after Gardner deserves commendation. For the present meeting he has undergone special preparation, and as his game-ness is unquestioned many believe he has a good chance of turning the tables upon the clever and agile Gardner.

Many of the latter's friends are to visit him Sunday at his training quarters, Ferncroft Inn, Middleton, Mass., and will judge for themselves the condition of the Lowell boxer.

Everything seems to indicate that the match will be the fastest that the pair has ever engaged in, and consequently the Armory club members are anticipating a rapid fire argument.

Two excellent eight round bouts will take place before the main event. In the first, Mike Melia and Angus McDougall will settle their argument once for all; while Tim Sullivan of Tewburyport and Andrew Morris of East Boston, two well known heavyweights, will engage in the other bout. Melia is the little fellow who gave Freddie Maguire such a good battle at the Gladstone club last Tuesday evening. The bout should have been a draw in the opinion of most of the sports who saw it although the referee gave the decision to Maguire.

THE DEMOCRATS INDIAN TRIBES

Open the State Campaign in Boston Described by Mrs. Doten at St. Paul's

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—An old-time torch-light parade, with fireworks and later, speeches, in Tremont temple, opened the state democratic campaign in Boston last night.

Four of the leaders on the democratic ticket were among the speakers, with Henry M. Whitney, former candidate for governor, and United States Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma.

James H. Vahney of Watertown, candidate for governor, opened the rally with a general characterization of the main issues of the campaign. He was followed by Eugene N. Foss of Boston, candidate for lieutenant governor, who made a plea for the enlistment of republicans in the democratic party, not neglecting an invitation to Gov. Draper.

Harvey N. Shepherd, candidate for attorney general, took up the issue of the Boston charter bill at length.

The tariff, the income tax and popular election of United States senators received the most attention at the hands of the speakers.

The rally was presided over by Chas. S. Hamlin of Mattapoisett, former assistant secretary of the treasury.

RALLY IN QUINCY

QUINCY, Oct. 22.—James H. Vahney and Eugene N. Foss, candidates respectively for governor and lieutenant governor on the democratic ticket, appeared at a rally here last night after they had spoken at the mass meeting in Tremont temple in Boston. Their remarks here were along the same lines as the speeches in Boston, and the large audience remained to hear them, although the hour was late. Chas. J. McClintock presided at the rally.

WAGE INCREASE

Will be Asked by Railroad Men

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—A request for a general wage increase, and betterment of conditions, including a ten hour maximum day for conductors and trainmen of every railroad system east of the Mississippi river, north of the Chesapeake & Ohio lines, and of eastern Canada, will be made before the end of the year. If the various local unions vote to ratify the action of the fourth annual convention of the Eastern Association of General Chairmen of the joint boards of arbitration and adjustment of the railroad conductors and trainmen's organizations, which closed its session in this city last night.

The resolution will be immediately submitted for referendum vote to the men of each system.

The following officers were elected last night:

President, J. Wall, New Haven, Ct. Vice president, G. M. Smith, Bowie, Md.

Secretary-treasurer, James Hurlburg, Hornell, N. Y.

The convention was attended by 117 general chairmen and the general officers of the Railway Conductors and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

ELECTION LAWS

Only One of Committee to Return

Says Practical Politics:

"It is interesting to note in view of the prominence that the question of direct nominations is likely to enjoy in the legislature of 1910 that but one member of this year's committee on election laws on the part of the house will return to the lower branch next year, and that one is a democrat—Rep. Martin F. Conley of Lowell. Thus Speaker Walker will have an entirely new committee to construct and the construction will not be one of the easiest tasks to confront him in making up the committees of next year's house. This year's committee on the part of the house was composed of Reps. Garcelon (chairman), Burr, Cutting, Walsh, Bouvier, Paige, Arnold and Conley, the last two being democrats. Reps. Garcelon, Burr, Paige and Arnold retire voluntarily. Rep. Cutting was forced out by rotation system. Rep. Walsh is a candidate for the upper branch, while Rep. Bouvier went down to defeat in the caucuses. Of the senate members—Sens. Rockwood, Morse and Spalding—only Sen. Morse retires.

Election laws has come to be one of the leading committees of the house, and next year there will be none more important from a political standpoint. For that reason Speaker Walker is likely to select some unusually strong men for the committee. It looks as if on direct nominations will come the big fight of the next session. With "Bully" Garcelon out of the way the advocates of direct nominations start with an advantage as they have several able leaders with a political leadership that no other party is able to find to lead the opposition. Editor Langley of the Springfield Union, whose advocacy of direct nominations is the sole reason for his bad standing with the state machine, is apt to play a prominent part in the direct nominations fight as a member of the house. A wag suggested the other day that he was supposed to be chairman of election laws and Arthur Nason, senate chairman. Neither is likely to land on the committee, judging from the care with which it was made up this year, but both can be depended upon to be heard on the floor of their respective branches on the subject."

DOUGLAS CO.

MAY TAKE ITS BUSINESS BACK TO BROOKTON

BROOKTON, Oct. 22.—Immediately following the action of the members of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union in ratifying the settlement of the long-existing controversy with the Douglas Shoe Company, came the announcement last night of the closing of two Douglas shoe factories in other places, so that it is believed the company has already begun preparations to bring part of its business back to Brockton. One of the Douglas factories in Marlboro and another in Haverhill were closed permanently yesterday and the work of removing the machinery was begun at once. In Marlboro it was given out that the 3000 hands in the closed shop would be given employment for the most part in another of the company's factories in that town. In Haverhill 300 operatives are thrown out of work by the shut down. Some may be transferred to the Brockton factory.

The other factories in Nashua, N. H., and Springfield, Me., to which the business was removed at the first of the present year as a result of the company's disagreements with the Boot and Shoe Workers' union have not received orders to close. It is understood that in Brockton the output of the Douglas plant at first will be 3500 pairs of shoes a day. Formerly the output was 20,000 pairs a day.

THE PRESIDENT

Paid Visit to the Town of Taft

GREGORY, Texas, Oct. 22.—President Taft had his education as a ranchman further enhanced yesterday by another afternoon of sight-seeing on the practical side of things. Starting from La Quinta at 3 o'clock the president motored over to Taft, 11 miles away, to visit the town which gave him its unanimous vote in the election last fall, and in the school-house there he made a little speech of thanks and congratulation to his brother's farm hands. On the highway to Taft the president stopped at the cotton gin and watched its operation with much interest. There he saw for the first time a steam plow, at work in the fields. Next the president was taken to the creamery, where he ate a dish of ice cream and just before going to the schoolhouse he had a look at the abattoir, which was not in use, however.

During the morning the president played 18 holes of golf with Robert Connerly of Austin, the reputed champion of Texas, who laid out the links of the Taft place. The president invited Mr. Connerly down to get a beating. But the young Texan led his distinguished opponent from the very first hole. Today the president will break his four days' vacation long enough to go over to Corpus Christi on the revenue cutter Windom to speak before the Inland Waterways association. He will return to La Quinta early enough in the afternoon to have a final game of golf before leaving at 8:10 p. m. for Houston and Dallas.

At the school house at Taft yesterday afternoon the president in speaking of farming, said: "The country seems to be taking on a new development with reference to the agricultural products necessary to feed the people. It is taking this on because everything that the farmer produces is most expensive to buy. He gets the highest prices today that he ever has in the history of the country and therefore, everyone who is looking forward to making a decent living is considering the question whether he has in him the elements of a good farmer, for there is no doubt that taken as a class, the farmers are the most contented, the best situated, have the best homes and the best prospects of any class in the community. The high prices of agricultural products of farming have attracted attention to the development of these fields that were supposed at one time to be useful only for cattle raising and now you are bound to make this whole southern Texas the garden spot of the entire state. The future, it would seem, has no limitations in respect to what can be done with this soil with proper agricultural appliances."

WANTED!

A CASE OF ECZEMA

Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Psoriasis or Ulcers that have baffled all doctors' skill and other medicines. Dr. Taylor's Eczema Remedy will positively cure it, the worst kind of a case—or no pay.

Old Man, 72 Years of Age, Cured by Dr. Taylor's Remedy

A few weeks ago the windows of the druggists in my locality were filled with your remedy, and I exclaimed, "Oh, oh, Yes! Another human! Still I shall try it," and immediately purchased a set of one of my druggists. I have used but one box of Ointment, one bottle of Purifier and one-half bottle of Lotion, which has proved its efficacy in the most remarkable manner. Yours very truly, Court Wamesit, F. of A.

Court Wamesit, No. 61, Foresters of America, held a well attended meeting in Weavers hall last evening. Chief Ranger E. A. Santos presided. Three applications were received, and three candidates were initiated. A report from the auditors was read and the entertainment committee reported for the last social.

EX-GOV. GUILD

Is Not a Candidate for Senator

LYNN, Oct. 22.—"May I say that I am not now and never expect to be a candidate for the United States senatorship or any other public office," said former Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., during a speech at a republican mass meeting in Odd Fellows hall last night. Continuing to discuss criticisms evoked by his speech on the tariff at Worcester early in the week, former Gov. Guild said:

"I see no reason why any republican should fear to admit, as President Taft freely stated, that the new tariff is susceptible of improvement."

"If this election is to be settled on the tariff issue," he went on, "every shoe town in Massachusetts in common decency should go by republican acclamation for the new tariff, whatever else may be said of it, makes hides absolutely free."

Gov. Eben S. Draper, Lieut. Gov. Frothingham and Congressman George P. Lawrence of North Adams were speakers at the meeting.

Gov. Draper discussed his veto of the eight hour bill, and referring to the automobile tax bill passed by the last legislature, said that it would furnish annually $200,000 to the state for good roads.

Lieut. Gov. Frothingham extolled the administration of Gov. Draper, and said that the latter's business methods had saved the state $1,000,000 during the past year.

Congressman Lawrence discussed the tariff bill, declaring it one of the best tariff measures ever enacted.

MAN DECAPITATED

He Was Struck by a Train

LYNNFIELD CENTRE, Oct. 22.—Joseph Viles, 50 years old, a farmer living on the road between West Peabody and this town, was instantly killed and decapitated near here yesterday noon by a train from Boston on the Newburyport branch of the B. & M. railroad.

Mr. Viles left home with a horse and wagon to go to the woods for a load of wood. He had fastened his horse in the woods not far from the railroad. Going back across the railroad track he was struck and run over by the train.

He was deaf and his eyesight was poor and the road is very tortuous at that point. Neither the engineer nor any of the crew of the train that ran over him knew anything about the accident. The body was not discovered until an hour later when the crew of an inward bound train saw it alongside the track.

Besides being decapitated Mr. Viles had been hurled thirty feet from the spot where he was struck. His aged wife during the afternoon went in search of him. Seeing a crowd beside the railroad she joined it only to find her husband's mutilated body.

The body was taken to his home. The couple had no children. Mr. Viles was uncle of J. H. Hewes of Lynnfield Centre and of Arthur Hewes of the firm of Hewes & Tupper of Boston.

LIVELY BLAZE

STARTED FROM SPARK FROM A LOCOMOTIVE

HELL, Oct. 22.—A spark from a locomotive early last night set fire to the wooden railroad bridge over the Ware river at Nantasket on the line of the Nantasket beach railroad, and the fire raged until after midnight because the apparatus was unable to reach the bridge.

The firemen, however, went out to the burning bridge from Hingham and Hull and worked for hours. The fire burned along the edges of one side of the bridge and destroyed about 30 feet of the structure.

Shortly after midnight, when the fire was extinguished, workmen at once began to repair the damage. The work will be finished so that the early morning trains can safely be run over the bridge.

WOMAN'S GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

BROOKLINE, Oct. 22.—The British women golfers, including the new American champion, Miss Dorothy Campbell of North Berwick, visited the recently improved links of the Country club today, accompanied by a number of the members of the Boston Women's Golf association. The British players are making a tour of the Boston links, having played in a foursome at Oakley yesterday. It is expected that they will look over the Wollaston course tomorrow and on Monday attack the premier American links at Myopia, where President Taft played this summer.

No tournament was arranged for today, but after playing the course at the Country club this forenoon it was expected that there would be a team match between the foreigners and Boston players in the afternoon.

COLLECTOR LYMAN

Is to Retire From His Position
at Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—Definite announcement was made by Senators Lodge and Crane last night of the contemplated program in regard to the position of collector of customs and U. S. sub-treasurer at Boston.

Hon. George H. Lyman, collector of the port, although promised a reappointment, declines the proffer and announces his retirement from the position at the end of his present term next April.

Hon. Edwin U. Curtis, who at present is U. S. sub-treasurer, will be recommended for the position of collector of the port by the two Massachusetts senators.

Col. Geo. H. Doty of Waltham, chairman of the republican state committee, will be recommended by the two Massachusetts senators to succeed Mr. Curtis as U. S. sub-treasurer at Boston.

The correspondence regarding the collectorship was given out last night by the two senators.

Mr. Lyman assumed the office April 1, 1898, and has held it longer than any of his predecessors. He now proposes to retire at the end of 12 years' service, for "personal reasons." His term has still five months to run.

The letter to Mr. Lyman from Senators Lodge and Crane, acknowledging his declination of another term, states that ex-Mayor Curtis, now assistant treasurer of the United States, in the Federal building, is to be recommended for executive appointment to succeed Mr. Lyman, and that Col. Geo. H. Doty, for nearly three years past chairman of the republican state committee, is to be recommended to succeed Mr. Curtis at the sub-treasury.

The report shows that the state aid office and the health department are in need of money. Under wages in the health yard there remains $4,633.19, and under expenses of the health yard $213.31. The school department will not have to ask for more than $1000 or $5000 to carry it through the year.

FOOTBALL GAME

HIGH SCHOOL TO MEET FAST BOSTON TEAM TOMORROW

The Lowell high school eleven will meet the fast Boston English football team on the gridiron at Spaulding park tomorrow afternoon in what promises to be the best game of the season. The local eleven after its excellent performance last Saturday against the Boston Latin demonstrated the fact that it is good enough to travel in the fastest company in the scholastic leagues.

Yesterday afternoon saw some brilliant practice at Spaulding park. The boys were put through strenuous work, including some of the rudimentary matters as well as the lineup and scrimmages. They worked well, fast and hard, and will put up a strong front against the English high boys on Saturday. It is to be an important game. If the Lowell boys can maintain their record of not having been beaten this season, they will be in fairly good shape to move forward to the Lawrence game and win that. It is going to take some real football, however, and the boys head the encouragement of large crowds of rooters.

Maker & McCurdy
CORSET SHOP
204 Merrimack Street

The Corset Event of the Season

Next week will be given over entirely to our Fall Corset Opening. As a line which is notable for the scope and design, will be in attendance to show the superior features of Gossard front-laced corsets.

We extend a cordial invitation to every woman who is interested in the corset styles for fall, to meet Madame Kaufman and discuss the corset question with her. If in the past, you have had any doubts as to the corset which would do the most for your figure, a fitting with one of the Gossard models will put them to rest. If you have never worn a Gossard you have yet to learn what the perfect corset union of beauty and hygiene means to the wearer.

There is a model for YOU. Exactly right for YOU. Be fitted to it and you will be delighted with the results. Gossard corsets give the suppleness and the long life demanded by the season's fashions. They support instead of depressing the abdominal organs, that is why physicians recommend them. They impart the classic, sculptured back. Anyone who knows the Gossard corset can tell the Gossard wearer by the back, at a glance.

The front-lacing is convenient and sensible. You can stand before your mirror and adjust your corset while you are putting it on.

This season's Gossard models are the product of the "New School of corset design," which means that every seam, core and bone is adjusted with that precision which is necessary in adjusting the balance wheel of a fine watch. Gossard corsets are made of the finest materials. Every detail is as nearly perfect as human ingenuity will permit. The materials are selected with great care for their texture strength and the Gossard corset will outwear two or three ordinary corsets.

All Gossard corsets are boned with "ELECTROBONE," the basis of which is the highest quality high-carbon trade mark non-breakable, clock-spring steel, perfectly flat and resilient; guaranteed rust-proof, and the best boning material used in corsets at any price.

Although Madame Kaufman will be here all next week, we advise you to come Monday if you possibly can.

Are You Half Sick?

Just sick enough to feel heavy headed, lazy and listless, to have no appetite, to sleep badly, just sick enough to feel restless and nervous, and to have what you eat feel like lead in your stomach; not sick enough to take to bed or call a doctor, but just sick enough to not know what to do.

Ninety-nine times out of one hundred these symptoms are all caused by the stomach, bowels, liver and digestive organs. Now, all this can be remedied in one night by taking Smith's Pineapple and Butter-nut Pills.

Anyone suffering from chronic constipation, biliousness, sick headache or liver complaint can tone up the entire system, elevate the spirits and again make life really worth living by a single week's use of Smith's Pineapple and Butter-nut Pills. You will have a good appetite and sleep well. They are Nature's laxative, entirely different from anything you have ever taken before. Physicians use and recommend. They form no habit. You should always keep them on hand. These little Vegetable Pills will ward off many ills!

JOHN GOLDEN

Was Re-Elected President of the United Textile Workers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The United Textile Association of America today re-elected John Golden president, James Tansley first vice president and Albert Hibbert secretary-treasurer, all of Fall River, Mass., and elected Thomas Morgan of Paterson second vice president.

To facilitate the ordering of strikes in the cotton, silk and kindred industries the association today authorized the appointment of an emergency committee of five members with all authority in dealing with labor disputes that in the past has been conferred only on its more cumbersome executive council of 17 members.

This action was taken after an animated debate during which President Golden told the delegates of the embarrassment that had been experienced in the past, when he and his fellow officers had been unable to order men out of a mill until after long delay because it was necessary to call together the executive council from various parts of the country. He declared that mill owners had on occasions reduced wages, putting the lower scale into effect within a few days and then laughed up their sleeves at the officers of the United Textile Workers because they knew their hands were tied by their constitution which made necessary action by their executive council scattered all over the country if they were to retaliate by ordering a strike.

The emergency committee authorized today with power to order a strike can only act unanimously. In case they are divided in opinion as to the advisability of ordering men out of a shop the executive council must be called upon to decide what course should be taken.

Commenting upon the difficulties encountered by the officers of the association in their work, President Golden declared that as soon as a manufacturer in any of the textile industries set up business and became the owner of half a dozen looms he at once was possessed with a conviction that he must have an automobile and that he should live like a millionaire. Then, in order to realize that ambition, he said, the manufacturer began to put into effect arbitrary rules to increase his income from his employees.

During the debate over the plans for extending the membership and influence of the United Textile association, Thomas Morgan of Paterson, N. J., expressed his belief that trades unionism in the textile industry in his home city had been built up from a membership of 68 to 875 in the last year and every one of the 61 mills doing business there would be organized within the next 18 months.

JUDGE LOWELL

GETS THE REPORT OF THE RECEIVER

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—Characterizing the defunct brokerage firm of Haight & Freeze as "the largest bucket shop swindling concern in the country," James Colt submitted his final report as receiver of the firm to Judge Lowell in the United States district court today. He said that he believed that as a result of the publicity attending his efforts to wind up the affairs of Haight & Freeze, the city of Boston was now practically free from bucket shops.

Since his appointment as receiver on May 8, 1906, Receiver Colt said the total receipts had been $154,364 and the expenditures $153,001. He recommended that the balance be divided between the receiver and his counsel. The claims of 1346 persons, amounting to $100,353, have been allowed and as many more disallowed. Two dividends, one of 12 per cent, the other of 2 per cent, have been paid.

Judge Lowell set no time as the date of a hearing at which creditors are asked to appear and state whether they have any objections to the discharge of the receiver.

The firm of Haight & Freeze conducted extensive stock brokerage operations in this city, New York, Philadelphia and other cities.

CHEWING BARRED

Tobacco Chewing Prohibited at Opera House

Manager Ralph Ward of the Lowell Opera house, who was ever a stickler for propriety and the comfort and convenience of his theatre-goers has begun a crusade against the patrons of the theatre who persist in chewing tobacco while witnessing a performance and he guarantees to put a stop to the vile practice at the risk of making himself unpopular with a certain element which patronizes the Opera House. Of course the trouble comes mostly in the upper part of the house and while Manager Ward is directing his effort mainly at that section the embargo applies to every corner of the theatre if necessary, and the police and attaches have been instructed to warn and then eject anyone regardless of his personality who persists in chewing tobacco while in the theatre. The fact that the tobacco chewer takes the trouble to have recourse to the cuspidors will not save him, for the practice must stop and Manager Ward is a man of his word. In a theatre, not only of the size of the Opera House, but in any theatre, ventilation and perfect sanitary conditions form the great problem for the management. A theatre must be properly heated and properly ventilated and yet without admitting the slightest noise or draughts from the outside world. As a result the interior of a theatre is particularly confined and the slightest nuisance of an odoriferous nature is intensified by reason of the confinement.

There are some people who think they can't enjoy a play unless they have a chew of tobacco just like other "rubies" who couldn't enjoy a circus without a careful of peanuts, the shells from which are distributed indiscriminately over the clothing of those who had the misfortune to sit near them. Lowell has long since ceased to be a "rubie" town. The late "Mose" Bloom, who managed the theatre before Mr. Ward, started to educate Lowell to up-to-date theatrical ideas as to conduct, etc., but the change was so radical that he made himself unpopular with some of the patrons. But he was right and so is Manager Ward, but the latter is more conservative, or to use the vernacular more "easy" than his predecessor, though some people evidently do not appreciate the fact. Manager Ward will not stand for tobacco chewing in the Opera House, henceforth, and if he succeeds in complete results from his present crusade, an extremely large part of his patronage will rise up and call him blessed. Therefore, ye who will chew while at the Opera House, don't be surprised if you are politely invited to get out when an attaché catches you exuding the juice with the noise of a 10 pound shot at a quiet moment during the progress of a play. It's bad enough to get the odor of tobacco chewing in the Opera House but the more intelligent of the chewers make it a practise to wait until everything is dark and quiet to expectorate, thinking that they who have eyes hear not and the noise is startling. Cut out the tobacco chewing in the Opera House.

A TREMENDOUS SUCCESS

When we announced last week that beginning October 15th our Middlesex street store would be conducted as a Cash Furniture Store, many other dealers laughed at us, giving as a reason that we could not do enough business to pay our gas bills. Their idea would be correct. It would be a waste of time and money—unless we could give values that no other furniture store in Lowell that sells on credit could. This we are doing. We find that many people are willing to pay cash when it means a saving of dollars on everything in the line of Furniture and Stoves.

Compare our prices with all the others. Price the article you want in any of the other stores and then come and see our price. We could not afford to invite this comparison unless we knew there could be only one result.

THE DEMOCRATIC OUTLOOK.

The democratic leaders in this campaign are becoming more confident of overcoming the republican majority on election day. It is pointed out that last year Mr. Draper received 228,318 votes and Mr. Vahey 168,102, a plurality of over 60,000 for the republican candidate. The Independence league had a candidate in the field who received 23,101 votes, and these, it is expected, will vote for Mr. Vahey in this election. This will cut down the republican plurality a great deal and the opposition of the labor unions to Draper's candidacy should help to wipe out that plurality. Messrs. Vahey and Foss are making a very vigorous fight for success and it would benefit the state in various ways should they score a victory at the polls in November. Republican bossism, republican extravagance and the republican lobby on Beacon hill have taxed the patience of the people to the limit, and a change of administration that would put honest and level-headed men in office could not fail to bring good results.

THE CANADIAN NAVY.

The war scare in England and the talk of danger to the empire have caused Canada to undertake the construction of a navy to cost $20,000,000. Professor Goldwin Smith makes a strong protest against this proposed outlay for warships at a time when there is no danger of attack at any point, no encroachment on the maritime interests of Canada, and no prospect of trouble unless she makes it.

With such a navy a colony like Canada three thousand miles away from the seat of empire, will soon become imbued with the spirit of independence and will want to cut loose from England altogether. The Australian colonies will probably do the same after they shall have built their navy, so that after all this talk about a colonial navy for imperial defense is not calculated to strengthen the empire or increase the loyalty of the colonies.

THE QUESTION OF VERACITY INVOLVED.

There is a question of veracity to be settled between Governor Draper and Eugene N. Foss. The governor asserts that Mr. Foss wrote him a letter advising him to veto the eight-hour bill but this Mr. Foss stoutly denies and he challenges the governor to produce the letter or a photograph of it.

The governor has produced the letter purporting to be addressed to His Excellency by the B. F. Sturtevant company, E. N. Foss, treasurer. That is not the usual way to sign any letter of the kind, and while the governor may have received such a letter it may not have been written by Mr. Foss or his company. The mention of Mr. Foss' name as treasurer at the bottom of the letter does not seem to have been intended as a signature but merely as an indication that he was then the treasurer of the company appealing for the defeat of the bill.

We do not believe that the governor would deliberately make a false charge against Mr. Foss nor do we believe that had Mr. Foss written the letter, he would repudiate the document as emphatically as he does. There is a misunderstanding somewhere which the public would like to see cleared up.

THE NECESSITY OF PURE AIR.

All the reliable authorities agree that pure air is as necessary as pure food, and further that unless the human system is amply supplied with oxygen the combustion of the food cannot be properly maintained, and as a result the nourishment of the body would be deficient. The air outside is purified by rain and sunshine except continually contaminated with some foul odor such as gas emanating from sewers, smoke from chimneys or the odor of decaying animal matter from tanneries and other establishments such as the Rendering Works.

There seems to be room for considerable progress in the line of education in regard to the value and necessity of complete ventilation. The air in the homes unless changed continually by ventilation is usually charged with dust. The air outside unless on windy days when the dust rises from the streets, is usually more free from dust. The problem of fresh air in the home is one of great importance because it is a great factor in the maintenance of good health and the prevention of disease. Heated air being lighter than cool air rises and the cool rushes in to take its place; but there must be some opening connecting with the outer air in order that this exchange of fresh air for foul may be continuous.

What is known as foul odors that contaminate the atmosphere for a large area around a central point are but an emanation of atoms or minute particles from some decaying body. If the dead body of an animal were left above ground for a period of time, the flesh would eventually disappear through decay and the effusion of infinitesimal atoms sent out into the atmosphere in all directions. These atoms would constitute a foul and unhealthful odor because they contaminate the air which is taken into the lungs for the purification of the blood. If the air thus inhaled is not pure it cannot purify the blood, and the body is thus deprived of one of the most essential elements of health. Impure air is a mild poison, and while the injurious results may not be immediately apparent they are there nevertheless.

When Dr. Wiley, at Washington, conducted a series of experiments upon his poison squid, except in rare cases he did not notice any serious effects, but were the mild doses of poison to be long continued they would soon undermine the constitution and bring on disease. So it is with those who breathe impure air, whether the impurity be due to foul odors, dust or the smoke from factory chimneys.

One of the most important duties of the board of health in any city is to suppress foul odors. They may carry disease germs, but even if they do not, the fact that they render the air impure is sufficient argument in favor of their suppression. They act as slow poison to the system.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Mrs. Dewey C. Bailey, president of the Denver Woman's club, has been endorsed by the State Woman's club of Colorado for the nomination for congress in the first district. Mrs. Bailey is the wife of the United States marshal of Colorado.

Rev. Edwin Hallöck Byington, pastor of the Dane Street Congregational church at Beverly, announced to his people on Sunday that he had decided to accept the call to the South Congregational church at West Roxbury and he asked that his pastorate terminate at Beverly on Nov. 30.

From London comes word that Nat Goodwin has bought a musical play by C. M. S. McLehane and Ivor Caryll, in which he purposes to appear in America at mid-winter. "I am going back to a musical play," says Mr. Goodwin, "simply because the public demands it, and my business is to please the public."

Rann Kennedy's plays are finding their way to the European stage. "The Servant in the House," as was inevitable after the stir that it made in America, is soon to succeed "The Great Divide" in London, and his Icelandic tragedy, "The Winter King," which won audiences in New York, is announced for performance this winter at the Lessing theatre in Berlin.

Dr. Amy Tanner, formerly a professor at Tufts college, has been chosen to supervise the work of measuring and testing defective children at the Institute for Child Study, which has just been opened at Clark university, Worcester. The institute is to be devoted entirely to the study of children and will eventually have five departments, each supervised by an expert.

Mrs. Mary Coonle is said to be the richest full-blooded Eskimo woman in the world. Though she can neither read nor write she had accumulated a large amount of wealth, consisting of mining property and the largest private reindeer herd in the world. Besides young reindeer there are said to be more than two thousand antlers in the herd, all bearing her brand. Mrs. Coonle employs as her private secretary an Englishwoman who is a graduate of Oxford. By Eskimo standards Mrs. Coonle is the best dressed woman in the Arctic region.

Miss Lillian Carol has been selected to take Mrs. Mary B. Thaw's place as superintendent of the restaurant for workmen which the National Civic Federation opened last spring in the Brooklyn navy yard. Miss Carol managed the lunch room in the McKinley high school of Chicago last year, and declares that she finds catering to workmen much easier than to children. The chef and a few of the kitchen help in this restaurant are men, but the cashiers, waiters and assistants are all women.

An Exhibition of the New Overcoats

From which there is much to learn. You are cordially invited to come here and see what is newest and what is correct in overcoat styles and materials for the present season. The best qualities, the best values, the correct styles and the best tailoring obtainable in ready-to-wear clothes, have given us a lead that grows greater each season.

OUR OVERCOAT EXHIBITION shows most decidedly how far in advance we are and how carefully we have kept in touch with public taste.

From our all wool overcoats for $10, up to the most expensive garments, every coat this season is made with hand felled collar, assuring a better fitting coat about the neck than it is possible to get in a garment machine finished. This is but one of many care-taking points in manufacturing, about which you could know nothing unless we told you—that helps to make our overcoat values unapproachable.

Men's Finely Tailored Overcoats $10 and $15

The new half-box models, with long roll broad lapels, hand tailored, from two excellent shops. Fine kerseys, coatings and meltons, in blue, black, Cambridge gray and Oxford—finer fabrics than are shown by any clothing house in Lowell at anywhere near these prices. The style and character of these overcoats are quite equal to those for which you'll pay much more money. They are without question the best that we have offered for

$10 and $15

Rogers-Peet's Overcoats

Rich, elegant, splendidly tailored, fitting perfectly, these superb garments are in every respect as satisfactory as the most exacting man can desire. Made from a variety of handsome soft finished English coatings, patent beavers and the finest qualities of kerseys and meltons. The linings are sumptuous, pure dye silk or specially woven worsteds—such garments easily supplant those for which a merchant tailor charges extravagant prices.

Rogers-Peet's Overcoats, $20 to $45

Strikingly New Fancy Overcoats

This will be a great season for fancy overcoats and we have provided a wonderful stock of them. Novelties in weaves and materials—Handsome Scotch cheviots in plaids and stripes in a bewildering range of color effects—cut very long, loose and boxy in Great Coats, Auto Coats and Protector models, with "stock" collar—or like the Stan-lay (for which we are sole agents), with the collar so cleverly worked out that it may be worn in four different ways.

ants are all women. Miss Carol superintends them, buys the supplies, plans the meals and sees that they are properly served. Everything is five cents, and for 25 cents a man may get a lunch including soup, meat, two vegetables, dessert, coffee or tea. Bread is thrown in. The Civic Federation's members say that this luncheon has convinced them that workmen properly hot coffee to beer, and appreciate being able to get good food at a reasonable price.

Dr. Wulther reappeared in New York to begin his second American tour, before an audience that applauded him as ardently as did his hearers everywhere last winter. In no respect apparently, has he changed his ways or altered the impression that they make. "He had no more votes to offer than he had before," says the Times. "In fact, it seemed as if there were a little less. Nor had he any more of the purely vocal technique of the art in the management of his voice, and the attainment of essentially vocal effects, than before. His aims are all in other directions; and singing is a secondary affair in the artistic performance that he offers. That he seeks for an interpretation of the word, the essential character, the inner spirit of the songs with which he deals is unquestionably true; and it is true that such a point of view is an indispensable part of the highest interpretation. That his methods are guided often by a fine intelligence, a deep sympathy, and in certain respects by musical feeling, is undeniable. On the other hand, the theatricalism which seems to be woven into the substance of his artistic nature is more and more clearly revealed by repeated hearing and repeated seeing."

SUNSHINE CLUB

HOW TO SAVE

DISCUSSED BY GEO. H. TAYLOR BEFORE BARACA CLASS

"How a young man can save money" was the subject of an interesting talk by George H. Taylor, before the Baraca class of the First Baptist church, last evening. Mr. Taylor advised young men to begin early to save money systematically and to own their own homes and become interested in civil government and the care of property. He warned them against getting rich quick schemes, and called attention to the rapidity with which money accumulates when it is saved systematically.

SEARCHING PARTIES DEATH EXPECTED

Looking for Husband, Wife and Three Children

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Oct. 22.—T. H. Kellogg, a rancher, while riding across the Mojave desert in the Carisho creek country yesterday, came across the tracks of two teams. The wandering trails indicated that the drivers either were lost or did not have control of mind left. He followed the trails and finally came on a camp wagon and a buggy and farther away a horse dying of thirst. Here evidently was the starting point of a greater tragedy.

Following the trail farther, he discovered the tracks of a man, a woman and three children. Uneven at times retreating and wavering in purpose as though the travelers did not know which way to turn the footprints on the sand told of the search for water against a desperately growing need.

Sometimes the trail of one or another of the children disappeared indicating that the father or the mother had expended a last drop of energy in carrying their dying little ones. The trail followed the bed of a dry creek for many miles and then led off to that country from which few travelers return. Where the lost ones are is unknown. Kellogg returned to civilization and searching parties were started out at once, but no word has been received.

PRES. MURPHY

IS IN FAVOR OF A LONGER SEASON

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—President Murphy of the Cubs has put himself on record as favoring a longer season of baseball. The present season of 154 games begins April 15 and ends the first week in October, while the players are under contract from April 15 to Oct. 15.

"I can't say just how many games I would favor," he said, "but it seems to me that the season ought to be extended to cover the period the players' contracts cover."

Sen. McCarren in Very Critical Condition

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—State Senator Patrick H. McCarren's fight for life is believed to be nearing its end. This morning his pulse rose to 130 and it was announced at the Brooklyn hospital where he was operated upon for

SIMPLE FORMULA FOR HAIR TROUBLES

There are no better things known for treating the hair and scalp than the following: Refined soap, white of eggs, glycerine, Coclin, coconut oil and salicylic acid. The refined soap is used to cleanse the hair and scalp of dirt and impurities generally. The Coclin coconut oil helps to make a profuse lather, and gives a beautiful silky gloss to the hair. The white of eggs loosens the dandruff and scales on the scalp, and is one of the finest things known for this purpose. Glycerine is a softener, smoothes and heals the scalp, and its emollient properties are known to everybody. Salicylic acid is a destroyer of germs and bacteria. It is also one of the standard antiseptics, and prevents the disagreeable odors that are often found on the head and hair. Instead of going to the trouble and expense of securing these ingredients and mixing them yourself, buy Birt's Head Wash, the new scientific preparation, which is made exactly according to the foregoing formula. Birt's Head Wash keeps the pores of the scalp open so the hair follicles can secure proper nourishment. Ask your doctor about it. Price 50c. a jar, at all druggists.

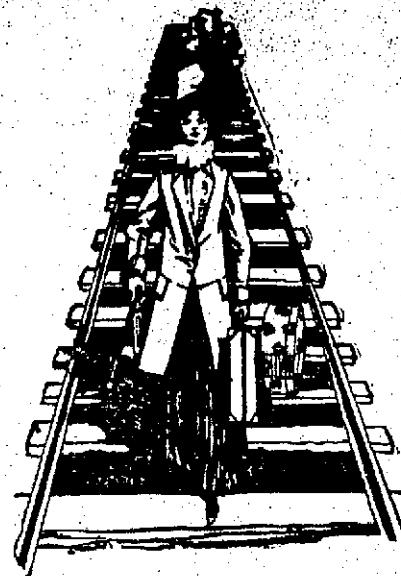

Sen. McCarren, who was operated upon for a brain tumor, was in a very critical condition. The friends of the democratic leader of Brooklyn which have been alternately raised and depressed by reports of his improvement and then of relapse, were at a minimum when it was stated at the hospital that the patient was very weak and that an unfavorable turn developed during the night. The senator was never a man of great vigor and the drains of the past week on his vitality and endurance have left him without reserve power with which to fight a protracted siege of severe illness.

The Brooklyn leader fully realized his condition. A priest was kept close at hand ready to offer the final consolations of the church to the dying man.

POLICE OFFICIALS

Still Searching for Evidence in St. Jean Murder Case

FALL RIVER, Oct. 22.—The police of this city were still searching for evidence in the St. Jean murder case today, paying especial attention to the work of discovering the missing head of the girl whose dismembered body was found scattered along Bulgermarsh road in Tiverton.

Meanwhile Medical Examiner Thomas F. Gunning was preparing his report in order that he may present it to District Attorney Swift as soon as possible. Dr. Gunning, Medical Examiner McGrath of Boston and Dr. John W. Coughlin of Fall River performed an autopsy upon the body which was examined first by Town Medical Examiner Stimson, who also attended this autopsy by request. The search for the missing head by the police of Tiverton was practically abandoned today. "We have looked everywhere," said a prominent official of that department today. "We cannot see that we can do more. There are several volunteer citizens out along the Bulgermarsh road."

FOOTBALL PLAYERS WORK HARD FOR FAME

By TOMMY CLARK.

HOW many of those who witness the annual football games among the big universities are aware of the fact that no athlete works harder for the honors he gets than the muleskin warrior? There is no sport on the calendar in which an athlete can make quite so meteoric a rise as in football; but, while he has a shorter route to fame than any other knight of the muscle, there are but few who ever give a passing thought to the course of training that the boy has had to condition of his charges rest on the shoulders of the trainer. His words must be law, and the final law at that. When the players are on the field the trainer drops to secondary, the head coach taking first place. He alone instructs the men in the intricate science of the game, its plays, signals and tricks. The trainer, so far as the work of developing a team is concerned, is as if he did not exist.

Yet before the practice begins he tells the coach how much physical work he wants each player to do; he remains on the side lines to see that over. It is as important to keep a player in this state as it is to get him into it. A player who becomes "stale" is as useless almost on the football field as the novice.

In a certain western university the football players are turned out of their beds by the trainer and his assistants around 6 o'clock. The men dress and in a few minutes are ready for a half hour's stiff exercise before breakfast.

One morning this consists of going through the sitting up exercises of the army—a splendid movement for every part of the human system. The next last year's reserve squad, the stars of the freshman squad of a year ago. Each one of them may have won a place in the heart of the head coach.

All of these men, who number in hundreds at the big schools, have a slight bulge around the ambitious candidate, and before he gets a chance to win his letter he must have proved that he is better than each unit of these hard fighting hundreds. Sometimes there are as many as a dozen candidates for a single berth so closely matched in the same abilities or so well balanced in individual claims that start to the varsity scrub team ranks. The law school at "Ann Arbor" has fresh soph, junior and P. O. teams entered in the annual intercollegiate elimination schedule; the dental college has three, and each of the three college departments—engineering, medicine and law—turns out four or five dozen and a dozen green adorned squad. In contrast to the Wolverine varsity seven game schedule, these class teams play nearly every day of the autumn quarter, and twenty-three games are necessary to decide the premiership of the twenty-two teams. Formerly a round robin was played.

Even now, with the elimination system, few of the first round losers are satisfied until they have played the others down. About two years of this strenuous work grinds out some finished players, who put in strong claim for varsity jobs. At other schools class teams are almost as productive, and east and west many a late rising star has come from struggles for numerals.

Hard fights for recognition are not the football players' only troubles to be borne before he ranks as a stellar light. Even after his spurs are won a week's laydown may kill forever his chances on the team. Always the men he has passed are hot after him, looking for a single day's sickness to give them a chance to show in his place, where one bright play may influence the coach to change. Their practice starts early in the fall, and long before the games begin there have been weeks of hard training and bumps. Hours of quiz work soon are added to the afternoon practice, and signals and signal series must be learned at odd times. What all this means in connection with the study of a hard college course has been well told by the number of tired bodies that have gone to education bankruptcy. I have seen a hardworking scrub come home to his frat house and drop asleep at 6 o'clock, too exhausted for even his dinner.

Quarterbacks, perhaps, have it worse than any other boys, for, as much brain as a football job requires now, the field general, even more, must have a head filled with football lore.

AN OLD BASEBALL TICKET.

Sledge Collier of Atlanta Has One Dated 1885.

Sledge Collier, one of the fayed in the wool fans of Atlanta, Ga., has a relic of baseball days gone by.

Like all baseball fans, Mr. Collier has a fad. "This fad is saving tickets of the pennant winning Atlanta team, and he had in his possession a ticket of the pennant winning season of 1907. But this was not the real relic. He produced a ticket of the days when Atlanta first won a pennant. This was in 1886. This was during the old Southern league, before the present organization was founded in 1901. The ticket bore the following inscription: "Atlanta Baseball Club, 1886. No Money Refunded After Game Is Called. Admit One to Grand Stand."

PREDATORY HUNTING SPORT.

Los Angeles Man Suggests New Pastime to Save Game.

Sportsmen ought to devise some new hunting sport whereby carnivorous and destructive animals might be killed instead of the deer and birds, which do not prey on other animals and are harmless, says a prominent hunter in Los Angeles. Mountain lions, wildcats and coyotes are well worth hunting for the sport, and a bounty is paid for their slaughter. It is asserted by old hunters that these animals kill more game than all the hunters put together. If that is the case, it would not only be sport but a blessing to kill these animals. It would save the game and furnish the hunters excellent trophies. The skins of all the animals named, even the coyote, make excellent parlor adornments and may be mounted or made into rugs at comparatively small cost. Why not form a club to kill these animals in the off season? Prizes might be offered for the greatest number of kills.

WHAT IS AN AMATEUR?

Definition Is Different as Applied to Various Lines of Sport.

What is an amateur?

All depends on what sport you are engaged in.

If a college athlete, you are not supposed to have ever contested for money, not even for a nickel offering by your grandpa, when you were a kiddie of five.

If a trap shooter, you can compete for money, but you must never have sold powder or guns or had any firm pay your expenses to a tournament.

If a golfer, you are barred if you have ever competed for money, made golf clubs for a living or acted as a professional instructor for a club, but you can play in tournaments with professionals.

In every sport there is a different idea of just what an amateur sportsman is.

To say the least, it is confusing.

The colleges are supposed to be the most strict, but even there some professionalism is allowed to creep in in a roundabout way.

A college athlete may work all summer in a harvest field and return a clean amateur, but if he plays one game of baseball and takes a cent he is barred from amateur circles.

That is, if they can prove it on him.

Over in England they have been calling a "simon pure" amateur the man who played for pure love of the sport and who did not work for a living.

We do not go that far in America. If we did, Harry Payne Whitney and young Jay Gould would be about the only amateur sports on the job.

CANDIDATES FOR YALE FOOTBALL ELEVEN PRACTICING LINE RUSHING.

undergo in order to become a hero in your own and the eyes of the fanatically cheering thousands that watch the game.

When one discovers the routine which a muleskin warrior goes through it is dollars to cents that admiration will grow apace for the husky specimen of young manhood who for some sensational play is being lifted on the shoulders of his joyful college mates, for there is the training that would make a Spartan warrior wince. For two months or more the football hero is in training every minute. As early as possible in the season he must become full of strength, agility, speed, endurance, and, above all, he must be taught the science of the game. It is the duty of the trainer to equip him with all the essentials except the last.

That he may perform his part of the work to the best advantage the trainer, whenever the college authorities will let him, gathers each and every grain of iron player into a training or football house. No university which offers an advanced course in the strenuous gridiron game is without a house for the players. Although a football house usually holds, besides the trainers, from twenty-five to thirty players, several assistants to the trainer, a chef and a corps of waiters, there is only one mind in that house from the time it opens until the men break training at the season's end, and that is the trainer's.

All responsibilities for the physical each does his allotted task, and if he discovers that any player is being worked too hard for any reason whatsoever he takes or directs the coach to ease up on him, and the coach must do it.

Also as the men are injured the trainer rushes them to the gym—that is, provided no bones are broken or other serious injuries sustained.

Practice usually lasts for an hour and a half. In that time each man is instructed not only in team play, but in his own specialty, the object of it all being ultimately to make eleven units work beautifully as one. Sometimes the practice is discouraging, sometimes highly pleasing to coach and trainer and players alike.

For the first week of training each player, as a rule, will lose several pounds of flesh after practice. A fat man will get rid of seven or eight pounds, a man of average build about a pound or less.

For several days following the first week of practice it is the rule of the players to put on from eight to ten pounds apiece; then as the training becomes more severe they drop back to normal and remain there throughout the rest of the season.

A chart of the weights is kept by the trainer, and by means of it he is greatly aided in determining the peculiarities of training that he needs to bring the player to the height of physical condition and to keep him there until his last football duty is morning it is calisthenics, perhaps, or the medicine ball, or a walk of two or three miles, finishing with a sprint of a hundred yards. Frequently there are punting and drop kicking by the kickers excused from the other exercise.

Once back at the football house, those men who have perspired freely rub themselves down, all dress for breakfast, and right on the minute set for it the meal begins. At the head of the varsity table sits the trainer. One of his assistants occupies a similar position at the college or scrub table, usually set in another room, and each handler serves to each player just as much food as the trainer thinks that player should have and no more. Three times a day the food is thus doled out, the portions being determined by the trainer's careful study of the young athlete's physical being. Thus many a player is kept from eating too much, and if the handler sees that a player is not eating what he should then steps are taken to provide him with an appetite.

Troubles of the Candidates.

Many of the country's best gridiron players enter college well skilled in the details of good work on the gridiron. The high water mark of proficiency attained by many leading preparatory and public high schools present university students with numbers of promising material, but even the best of them work hard before they land a place on the team. Ahead is a horde of material that is so abundantly turned out from the ranks of only upon a trial in an actual game will the best of the twelve be able to show his superiority or the difference fast company will make in him.

Chief among the obstacles to the ambitions "possibility" ranks the candidate who comes to practice wearing a varsity initial. That letter looms up as big as the goal posts to the aspiring "would be" and it means practically all that it looks to him. It is seldom that a veteran is displaced by a newcomer and almost as rarely is the nerve found to make the hard fight. It is easier to enter the lists for another place not fated and run chance with the best of last fall's scrubs.

The regular has the advantage of his nine points' possession and must be outplayed by a wide margin before he inexperienced contender will be tried. Only one noteworthy case of such displacement is to be found in 1907 football, at Pennsylvania, where a saving of nine veterans influenced Torrey toward changes and gave the 1910 boys a chance.

Besides scrubs and regulars of last year's team and his fellow graduates of the freshmen eleven to beat, in many schools he finds well trained products of class teams in the running. At every big school these class team stars are a factor, and at some colleges an apprenticeship of this sort is considered necessary training. At Michigan, in the west, there is a team for every class in the school and every year these eleven graduates skilled

SAMUEL SMITH, SENSATIONAL YOUNG PITCHER SECURED BY CINCINNATI NATIONALS.

Smith, a native of New York city, is only twenty years old, yet his twirling ability has won him the praise of the veteran critics of the game. He pitched a tie game of sixteen innings against "Bugs" Raymond of the New York Nationals in an exhibition game. During his career with strong semiprofessional teams, he engaged in seventy-three games, winning sixty-two and losing eight. The remaining three contests were ties. After a tryout by the Chicago Nationals he was sent to Montreal, which club sold him to Cincinnati for $7,000 and two other pitchers, Savage and Egan. The Montreal fans declare him to be a second Rusie, owing to the tremendous speed of his delivery.

Forbes-Robertson Appears In New "Morality" Play by J. K. Jerome; "The Master Key" and Its Merits

[From Our New York Dramatic Correspondent.]

THE return of Forbes-Robertson to the stage of this country lends increased interest to the new dramatic season. "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," his new vehicle, is by Jerome K. Jerome and has the "morality" atmosphere which classifies the play with "The Servant in the House" and "A Message From Mars."

"The Third Floor Back" is the title applied to the humble occupant of a back room on the third floor of a miserable Bloomsbury lodging house. He is none other than the Saviour. Obviously, then, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" is a play with a message, and this it voices distinctly enough, though it is without the fine literary flavor of "The Servant in the House."

Little of Mr. Jerome's humor has percolated into the play, though there is a sort of lightness to the earlier scene in the Bloomsbury lodging house, with the familiar disputes about the length of the candles, the consistency of the milk, the disappearance of the landlady's whiskey and other details of cheap and sordid life. But the people themselves are so mean and unsympathetic as to be an antidote to the humorous inclination even here.

The Symbolic Characters.

The author's description of his own characters is sufficient index of their natures. They are a cheat, a slave, a painted lady, a shrew, a bully, a snob, a hussy, a rogue, a cad, a coward and a satyr, each human enough to be recognizable at once without the subsequent labels he affixes and each typifying some form of selfishness and vice.

Into this congregation, and first impressively revealed in a flash of light that illumines the opened door, enters the mysterious stranger, ultimately to be known to the other lodgers as The Third Floor Back on account of the chamber which he occupies and for which he unobtrusively pays the exorbitant landlady as much as or more than she demands. His work in the house is to bring back to each of the inmates his lost better self, and to each he appeals, and not in vain.

It is unfortunate for the more sustained interest in the play that the method of conversion must be the same in each case and that the formula of reformation must be repeated in every instance. The woman who paints her face, for instance, is commended for her lack of vanity and assured of her true beauty, whereupon she discards her makeup; the swindler is shamed into a new attitude by the ready acceptance of his lies on the part of his intended victim; the sensualist is suddenly convinced of his own evil ways by the play of the other's faith in their existence. And so it goes on throughout. But though the means are unvarying and the results more prompt and certain than might seem possible in life, the general effect of the exhibition is undoubtedly stimulating and wholesome.

Forbes-Robertson depicts the titular role with the poise and artistry that have come to be associated with his name.

"The Master Key."

"The Master Key," at the Bijou Theatre, has given Cosmo Hamilton the chance to combine two old themes, capital and labor and love, with decidedly pleasant results.

The hero is the young heir to a pseudo philanthropic manufacturing great founder, and the playwright sends him brought into one of the homes of his employees to learn the real cause of the strike that brought him from his travels to take the reha-dropped by his dead father. There the young man finds the master key to the situation, love, as embodied in the young schoolteacher of the little community.

As Drake, a supposed new clerk, the young ironmaster wins the girl's love, but is repudiated when his identity is revealed and he is known to be the man hated above all others of the workers because of his supposed indifference to the needs of his people. Upon this scene Mr. Hamilton and William A. Brady, the producer, have lavished a creditable effort. A fourth act brings the play to its rather unusual and charming conclusion.

Orin Johnson as the ironmaster gives firmness of touch and clarity to his performance, while Miss Frances King scores brightly throughout. Bennett Heathward is capital in what the profession designates a "fat part," as are Horace James as an optimistic workman and Frank Hatch as the old leader of the strikers. Leonora Oakford makes an unnecessary role seem important to the action.

THE STORY OF PINERO'S "MID-CHANNEL."

One of the characters in Pinero's new drama, "Midchannel," a middle-class family friend, gives the keynote of the whole play in the first act when he says:

"About halfway between Folkestone and Boulogne there's a shoal—La Colombe the French call it. We call it the ridge. D'ye know, I've never encountered that blessed shoal without experiencing a most unpleasant time. I've begun to feel fidgety, restless, out of sorts—havin' myself and havin' the man who's been starin' my cabin with me. But the sensation hasn't lasted long. Gradually the beastly motion has died down and in a quarter of an hour or so I've found myself pacin' the same deck arm in arm with the travelling companion I've been positively loathin' a few minutes earlier. My dear pals, there's a resemblance between that and marriage. The happiest and luckiest of married couples have got to cross that ridge. Sooner or later there's the rough and tumble of midchannel to negotiate. But it's soon over, well over, if only Mr. Jack and Mrs. Jill will understand the situation, if only they'll say to themselves, 'We're on the ridge; we're in midchannel; in another quarter of an hour the boat'll be steady again.'"

This, then—this ridge or shoal so often reached in marriage—is what Sir Arthur has based his drama upon. He shows a well-to-do English couple, a Mr. and Mrs. Blundell, who have grown tired of each other. Theo Blundell burlesques himself in his business. Zoe cultivates smart friends, smokes cigarettes and has nice boys to tea every day. She calls them her tame robins, particularly Leonard Ferris, who is described by the family friend, Peter Mottram, as "an unmanly young cub who has a nice head of hair."

They quarrel over the plans of a trip to Paris, which they have arranged on Peter's advice, so that they can get away together and patch up their difficulties. The trip falls through, and Theo leaves the house in a rage and takes a flat of his own, while Zoe goes to Italy.

Meanwhile Theo has formed a too close friendship with a notorious woman. Peter tries to bring about a reconciliation, knowing both are wretched. Zoe finally turns against Leonard and tells him she will never see him again, and, acting on impulse, she goes to visit her husband. He, too, has just given his companion her change, and he is after the first few moments of restraint honestly glad to see his wife and make terms with her. But instead of a reconciliation a quarrel occurs. He insults her, and she tells him she will marry her lover if he will help her to obtain a divorce. The last act is in Leonard's flat.

Mr. Blundell and Peter come in, and Zoe hides in the next room. They, too, have come to point out to Leonard his duty to Zoe. He declares himself willing to marry her. He goes into the next room to find her that she may tell them her decision, but she has gone. The window is open. She has thrown herself out and lies dead on the pavement below.

EXTRA LARCENY CHARGED

Man Accused of Stealing a Box of Cigars

The fact that Merrimack square is closed to traffic at the present time does not mean that a little excitement cannot be caused in the square now and then. About 2 o'clock this afternoon the hundreds of people who were in the vicinity of the square were put on the qui vive when they heard cries of "Stop thief," "Catch that man," and saw two men running up Merrimack street.

Patrolman Dan Lynch, who is stationed at the corner of Central and Merrimack streets, heard the cries and saw a man running up the street with Mr. Calderwood of the firm of Calderwood & Robbins, cigar dealers, attempting to overtake him.

REWARD OF $500

For Conviction of Persons Im- plicated in Murder Case

FALL RIVER, Oct. 22.—Mayor Coughlin has prepared a communication that he will submit to the board of aldermen at a special meeting of the board that he will call early next week which reads as follows:

"The disappearance of Amelia St. Jean of this city under very suspicious circumstances makes it the duty of the local authorities to use every effort to discover the guilty party or parties. If any there be, responsible criminality for such disappearance. Your board with the concurrence of the executive of our city is authorized under the provisions of revised laws, chapter 217, section 16, to offer a reward of not more than five hundred dollars for persons providing evidence for the detection and conviction of any one guilty of the felony, by which said deceased may have lost her life. I, therefore, recommend that your honorable board pass a vote authorizing the mayor to offer such reward. The provisions of section 35 of the charter requiring an appropriation before expenditure does not apply, as this matter is otherwise provided by law. An order accompanies this communication.

"Very respectfully yours,
"John T. Coughlin, Mayor."

The text of the order authorizes the mayor "to offer a reward of five hundred dollars to the person or persons who may detect and secure evidence to convict any persons guilty of any felony whereby Amelia St. Jean lost her life and that this sum be paid out of the appropriation for contingent expenditures."

ICE TRUST CASE

Attorneys Trying to Locate the Missing Minutes

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The state attorneys continued their efforts to locate the corporation missing minutes in the charges preferred against the American Ice Co. These minutes covered the meetings of the corporation prior to July 15, 1899. The subsequent minutes were produced by the defense yesterday. John R. Bennett, secretary of the company and its first president, testified that minutes were taken at these early meetings, but after a thorough search he had been unable to find them.

Deputy Attorney General Robert Clark admitted that these minutes were wanted by the state to disclose the distribution of the company's stock.

"But that isn't all," he said. "We have a list here that shows that $19,000,000 was distributed for certain properties," added Deputy Attorney General Osborne, "but we don't know for what property this was given and we want to find out. For instance, $15,000,000 was distributed to Augustus Sprague and I want to know what the American Ice Co got for that?"

Counsel for the defense objected to drawing in the name of Charles W. Morse, but the prosecution insisted

CHIEF'S TELEPHONE

Transfer of It is Now a Matter of Dispute

While it is not thought that Supt. Welch is anxious about having a telephone in his house, the board of police has requested the New England Telephone & Telegraph company that the telephone in Lieut. Brosnan's house be transferred to the house of the superintendent, but found that an order from Mayor Brown stood in the way.

The telephone company has an agreement with the city to furnish one free telephone for every 2000 inhabitants in the city, and as far as can be learned has always carried out its part of the agreement. The distribution of these free telephones is handled by the mayor.

A phone in the residence of the superintendent of police has been one of the many free telephones given the city by the telephone company.

When ex-Supt. Moffatt was superintendent he had a free telephone at his residence in London street. When he was placed on the pension roll the board of police wanted the telephone installed at the residence of the then

MUSICAL TREAT

TO BE ENJOYED BY LOWELL PEOPLE

Lowell will be treated to an innovation in the way of musical treats in the course of a few days if an application before the board of police at the present time is granted.

A few days ago a man representing a New York concern called at the office of the board and applied for a license to render vocal selections with piano accompaniment in various streets throughout the city.

The clerk of the board asked the man for an explanation and the latter stated that he represented a New York concern which composed, published and distributed songs. The songs after being composed are turned over to a vocalist who travels through the country in a wagon which contains a piano.

The wagon with the piano and singer is stopped on a side street and after an overture by the pianist, the soloist sings the songs and while he is doing his part of the work men are passing through the crowd selling the music for so much per copy.

When the board of police received the application it was of such a novel nature that it was decided to query the city solicitor. This morning City Solicitor Duncan sent a communication to the board stating that according to his interpretation of the law, the board of police had the right to act on the matter as it saw fit.

NOT YET SOLVED

The Disposition of $320,000 is Still a Mystery

FRAMINGHAM, Oct. 22.—The mystery as to the disposition of the $320,000, which former Treasurer John B. Lombard admits was raised during the past 12 or 14 months on spurious town notes, was still apparently unsolved when the town officials came to their offices today prepared to receive additional evidences of the largest manipulation of town finances in Massachusetts for many years.

The deposed treasurer, Lombard, clung to his bed, although his physician says that his condition is not alarming and with a little energy he might be on his feet.

Lombard resolutely sticks by his first statement, that he never benefited by the sale of the notes and that money went to other parties. Yet every day new notes of questionable value appear and in nearly every instance the holders declare that they paid their money to the town or its accredited representative.

The work of examining the books of the treasurer for the past twenty years is still in progress and may continue a week or more. Even then it is not expected that the result will assist materially in clearing up the situation regarding the outstanding indebtedness except those sued whose value has not been questioned. Like the bonds and notes held by the state. The town officials up to 10 a. m. today had inspected and declared of questionable value notes amounting to $200,000 and more paper of like character was expected during the day.

WATERWAYS CONVENTION

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Oct. 22.—After three days of golf, rest and practical seclusion at his brother's ranch at Laquinta, President Taft came here today and made an address to the convention of the Inter-state Inland-Waterways league which began its session here yesterday. Gov. Campbell and other officials and a number of congressmen were among the delegates to the convention.

Mr. Taft made the trip from Laquinta to Corpus Christi, a distance of ten miles, on the revenue cutter Windom, leaving his brother's place shortly before 9 o'clock. Secretary of War Dickinson accompanied him.

The president returns to Laquinta this afternoon for a match game of golf and will leave Gregory at 8 p. m. for Houston where he is due to arrive early Saturday morning. Saturday evening will be spent at Dallas and early Sunday morning the president leaves for St. Louis to make the four days' trip down the Mississippi to New Orleans.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Against Management of City Farm

Charity Commissioner Harry W. J. Howe has been provided with material for another investigation at the city farm which if the alleged facts are proven to be true should mean but one result, a prompt change of administration.

Mrs. Bella Murray, a poor but reputable woman residing at 8 Mill street, states that her five months old baby died recently at the city farm and was buried in the Edison cemetery without her knowledge or consent, the unfortunate mother not learning of her baby's death until several days after the burial.

Supt. Mayberry declares that some woman who was assumed to be the mother was notified of the baby's death over the telephone, but he admits that the alleged notification was by an employee and he has no personal knowledge of the notification.

The case, if true, involves the most gruesome carelessness and negligence on the part of the authorities.

Mrs. Murray is a woman, who though the mother of a nursing baby, was forced by circumstances to go to work daily in the Carpet mills. When the baby took ill some weeks ago the poor woman found that she could not nurse the child properly and continue at her work and she took the little one to the nursery at the farm, where it was admitted. She made frequent visits to the nursery during her leisure time and instructed the authorities to notify her whenever in the Carpet mill if the child grew worse or died.

According to the records at the city farm, the baby died Oct. 4 at 5.30, and on the following Wednesday was buried in the Edison cemetery at the city's expense. Mrs. Murray claims that she did not know that her child was dead until Saturday afternoon, Oct. 9th, when she went to the farm, taking with her some clothing for the little one, when she was informed by the nurse that her baby was dead and buried.

Supt. Mayberry states that on the evening of the day that the child died Bartholomew Sheehan, a nurse, received a telephone call inquiring for the child, the voice saying, according to Sheehan, that she was Paul Murray's mother. Mr. Sheehan, according to Supt. Mayberry, informed the party at the other end of the line that the child was dead. It is claimed that the party at the other end of the line asked if she could see the body before it was buried.

Mrs. Murray declares that she never called up the city farm on the night in question and neighbors state she did not leave her tenement from the time she returned from her work on that evening.

JUSTICE GAYNOR "STRIKE" ENDED

Says That the People Should Rule

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—With New York's municipal election only twelve days distant, the campaign yesterday reached the stage of optimistic estimates. The following were the "probabilities" estimated by campaign managers for the three candidates for the mayoralty:

Bannard, republican-fusion, by 40,000.

Gaynor, democrat, by 75,000.

Hearst, independent, by 80,000.

The confidence expressed by all the campaign managers was pointed out by many observers last night as an indication of the "non-partisan" support for which the candidates look and as a sign of the breaking down to a great extent of party lines in the consideration of New York's municipal problem.

There were more than a hundred minor meetings in various parts of New York yesterday, with a plethora of earl fall oratory on almost every important street corner in the more congested residence districts.

Justice Gaynor toured the east side by automobile, repeating his previous attacks on Hearst and Bannard, and emphasizing particularly his plea for more "personal liberty" and for a liberal construction of police laws.

"The people's slogan in this campaign," he said, "ought to be 'Let us alone.' There has been too much censorship in New York city, too much government by the club and night stick. The people should rule. They should be allowed to live and move and have their being without the continual obnoxious interference of the city authorities."

Mr. Bannard was heard last night on Staten Island, the most remote of New York city's boroughs.

"I am a business man," he told his hearers. "I was never a candidate for office and have no political ambition. If elected, I shall do nothing else but work faithfully at my new job and try to leave a good name when the four years are over. That is my whole ambition. The ticket upon which I run represents the honest and indignant of the entire city against Tammany hall. Tammany stands for organized graft. Let us crush the graft and try a business man for mayor."

RIZZO IS GUILTY

Of Murder in the First Degree

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Theodore Rizzo, who has been on trial since Monday on the charge of murdering Theresa Prosio and Freddy Infusino in the Eagle street "guilt" on the night of Sept. 12, was convicted of murder in the first degree yesterday. After an announcement of the verdict which was reached after a little over an hour's deliberation, Rizzo said he was ready for sentence to be pronounced and Justice Rogers set the week of Nov. 21 as the time for his execution. The convicted man was taken to Auburn prison last night.

Rizzo displayed no concern over his fate. While the jury was deliberating he slept and some effort was required to awaken him when he was summoned to the court room to learn the verdict.

It became known yesterday that the prisoner made a confession to his attorney, J. A. Goldstone, just previous to the trial. It is said that he was anxious to die.

After sentence had been pronounced, one of the guards asked Rizzo why he murdered the children.

"I don't know; I was drunk," Rizzo replied.

ASKS $20,000

Woman Alleges Breach of Promise

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—An attachment for $20,000 on the property of Frank A. Appleton, a lawyer with offices in Barristers' hall and living at 146 Massachusetts avenue was filed yesterday at the sheriff's office in Suffolk county by counsel for Miss Sarah Waters of Everett. The attachment is made in a suit for breach of contract, it being claimed by Miss Waters that Appleton promised to marry her and did not do so.

The writ is returnable in the Middlesex county court early in December. Miss Waters is represented by Ex-Mayor T. J. Boynton of Everett and William E. Weeks.

Mr. Appleton said last evening that whatever he knew about the alleged attachment concerning himself had been told him during the evening by newspaper reporters. "If there is any attachment there is no ground for it," he continued. "Never has there been anything approaching an engagement between myself and any woman by the name of Waters."

SENATOR JOHNSON

DIED FROM AN ATTACK OF NEPHRITIS

MARGO, N. D., Oct. 22.—United States Senator Martin M. Johnson (republican) of this state, died last night from an attack of acute nephritis at his hotel in this city.

A week ago he submitted to a second operation for a renal trouble and was thought to be doing well. He had been a sufferer from kidney disease for years and had complained during the last two days, but reports yesterday were reassuring. He was suddenly attacked late yesterday and death soon followed.

Senator Johnson was 59 years old, a native of Wisconsin and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. He was a member of the lower branch of the legislature.

Senator Johnson's death leaves a vacancy to be filled by appointment by Governor Burke, a democrat.

Students to Return to University

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 22.—After a "strike" in which nearly every student at the University of Maine, with the exception of the football squad, had remained away from "rebellions" for nearly two weeks because some of their number had been expelled by the faculty for alleged participation in lugging, the undergraduates yesterday received word that temporarily at least they had gained their point and today they will resume their studies. This development came about through the efforts of the Alumni association who yesterday received word from E. B. Winslow of Portland, president of the board of trustees, that he had agreed to call a meeting of the trustees within two weeks and had guaranteed that the suspended men should have a fair hearing. No action will be taken until the meeting for next week. The students are anxious to resume their studies because of the trouble which has resulted therefrom and the students will not be censured in anyway for failure to report in their class rooms. The men whose suspension in the first place precipitated the trouble, will be permitted to remain on the campus to have access to the library and to have the opportunity of tutoring until their hearing takes place, so that they will not fall behind in their college work. Ever since the "strike" an alumni committee of which W. R. Pattengill is chairman, has worked with the students, the faculty and the trustees for a reconciliation, but had made apparently little progress until today.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 22.—The condition of Midshipman Ead A. Wilson, quartermaster of the Navy football team who is in a serious condition as a result of injuries received in the game with Villa Nova on Saturday, remains about the same. The navy room considers his death only a question of time. The authorities at the Naval academy were notified yesterday that the corps of cadets at West Point have ordered flowers sent to the bedside of the injured navy player.

The Most Becoming Thing a Woman Can Wear Is a Well Tailored Suit

It isn't the amount of money you spend on clothes that makes a woman look right. It's the way the money is spent.

A woman who is considered an authority on good clothes was heard to say recently,

"I Like to Buy My Dresses, Suits and Coats at O'Donnell's for Several Reasons."

- FIRST—STYLE
- SECOND—MATERIALS
- THIRD—TAILORING
- FOURTH—FIT
- FIFTH—ECONOMY

"Nothing is Too Good for Our Customers," is the slogan at O'Donnell's. That is why we carry in addition to several other lines

THE CELEBRATED WOOLTEX COATS and SUITS

The charm of these garments lies not alone in their beauty of line and their originality of design. It lies as well in their exclusiveness.

New Fall Dress Goods

In all the latest shades and colorings, at very attractive prices.

There is a very good reason why you should grasp this opportunity. We contracted for a great many hundreds of yards of Dress Goods before the advance in cost of wool. As a consequence, our prices are much below those of other stores, where later purchases were contracted. We quote five items out of a hundred of the modest priced fabrics. Why? Simply because any woman may judge of the values of such goods. The novelties from foreign manufacturers offer no such chance for our customers to gauge our low-priced mastery. However, the exclusive fabrics are relatively as cheap as their humbler American cousins.

ALL WOOL SURAH SUITINGS.

Immense variety of New Fall Colors, also shadow stripes and fancy suitings; you have never before known forty-nine cents to command such richness and beauty. If you wish to secure good values, less than you usually pay for the non-descript, see these. Value 59c a yard. Price 49c

BLACK WORSTED DIAGONAL.

All wool, 44 inches wide, rarely hardy. Serviceable weave that many women are devoted to. It is not a welly, whip-cord weave, but clean cut, definite, strongly outlined diagonal of the wide-wale world, pure black, like pol, like kettle, like raven wings. Price $1.00

BLACK ALL WOOL PARINA.

Black Parina, 44 inches wide, is one of the standbys for general knockabout wear. Also all wool Black Chiffon, tropical, an all-time favorite with a close fine weave, the kind that sheds the dust. Both fabrics are bright, rich blacks. Value $1.00 a yard. Price 75c

ALL WOOL DONARA SUITINGS.

44 inches wide, plain and shadow stripes in the new fall colors, beautiful finish—so desirable and popular. Also all wool Prunella, the fabric that fashion seems to favor. The weave is even and firm and the finish is soft and rich. These are good values at $1.00 a yard. Price 75c

BROADCLOTHS.

We are offering two grades of 50 inch All Wool Broadcloths of superior finish, perfect goods in a line line of the most wanted colors of London smoke, myrtle green, wine, tan, brown, gray, two shades of navy blue, including cream and black. Made to sell for $1.25 to $1.75. Price $1.00 and $1.25

MY RECOMMENDATION

New York's Swell Tailor's Stock is Sold to Mitchell for Cash

How He Does It

The Alden H. Weed Co., 315 Fifth Ave., corner 32nd St., New York City, doing a half million dollar business in jobbing high class woolens to the leading tailors and fine clothing trade of the country, have made plans for immediate retirement. They had run through an honorable career of 35 years, during which they had inseparably identified their name with the finest line of woolens produced throughout the world.

After a dicker which has lasted several weeks, I have been able to close a deal whereby I secure their entire immense stock.

With these goods on my tables today, I make a special appeal to my old customers to come in and see the woolen purchase that I regard as the greatest event in the history of Mitchell.

While the Alden H. Weed Company designed many of their own cloths, they also were importers from the largest foreign houses and much of this stock bears the stamp of ROBERTS CLAY MARTINS, the great west of England weavers, and other mill men of similar reputation.

These are fabrics that the ordinary tailor could not afford to handle at less than $25 to $40 for Suit or Overcoat. My price, irrespective of the values of the goods will be

Overcoat or Suit $12.50
To Your Measure

TO THE SKEPTICS:

For more than twelve years I have appeared before the reading public of all New England—as the leading low-price tailor of the country. During this time it has been my privilege to have secured possession of the stocks—"bankrupt," "assigned," etc.—of so many others of the tailoring craft that to chronicle all here would necessitate a page in itself. Each has served its purpose. Rungs in the ladder of success, which every progressive merchant steadfastly ascends—they have served to carry me to the high place I now occupy in the tailoring trade of the country. But I am not satisfied. It seems to me that every man who reads—who wears clothes—who wishes to save money on them—should by this time be a Mitchell customer. That they are not, I can only lay to one thing—SKEPTICISM. How can I quell this doubt? How can I demonstrate to you, without having you enter the store, that each stock that I buy is exactly as I represent it to be? I can think of but one way. After telling you the name and address of its previous owner—it is placed in my open doorway, where you can see and handle it without solicitation. Your own common sense will tell you that my valuation of it is not inflated. Your good judgment will speak out and tell you that when these goods are sold to you at Mitchell prices they are bargains that are positively unmatchable.

Open the State Campaign in Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—An old-time torch-light parade, with fireworks and later, speeches in Tremont temple, opened the state democratic campaign in Boston last night.

Four of the leaders on the democratic ticket were among the speakers, with Henry M. Whitney, former candidate for governor, and United States Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma.

James H. Vahey of Watertown, candidate for governor, opened the rally with a general characterization of the main issues of the campaign. He was followed by Eugene N. Foss of Boston, candidate for lieutenant governor, who made a plea for the enlistment of republicans in the democratic party, not neglecting an invitation to Gov. Draper.

Harvey N. Shepherd, candidate for attorney general, took up the issue of the Boston charter bill at length. The tariff, the income tax and popular election of United States senators received the most attention at the hands of the speakers.

The rally was presided over by Chas. S. Hamlin of Mattapoisett, former assistant secretary of the treasury.

BALLY IN QUINCY

QUINCY, Oct. 22.—James H. Vahey and Eugene N. Foss, candidates respectively for governor and lieutenant governor on the democratic ticket, appeared at a rally here last night after they had spoken at the mass meeting in Tremont temple in Boston. Their remarks here were along the same lines as the speeches in Boston, and the large audience remained to hear them, although the hour was late. Chas. J. McGilvray presided at the rally.

WAGE INCREASE

Will be Asked by Railroad Men

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—A request for a general wage increase, and betterment of conditions, including a ten-hour maximum day for conductors and trainmen of every railroad system east of the Mississippi river, north of the Chesapeake & Ohio lines, and of eastern Canada, will be made before the end of the year, if the various local unions vote to ratify the action of the fourth annual convention of the Eastern Association of General Chairmen of the joint boards of arbitration and adjustment of the railroad conductors and trainmen's organizations, which closed its session in this city last night.

The resolution will be immediately submitted for referendum vote to the men of each system.

The following officers were elected last night:

President, J. Wall, New Haven, Ct. Vice president, G. M. Smith, Bowie, Md.

Secretary-treasurer, James Hurlburt, Hornell, N. Y.

The convention was attended by 117 general chairmen and the general officers of the Railway Conductors and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

ELECTION LAWS

Only One of Committee to Return

Says Practical Politics:

"It is interesting to note, in view of the prominence that the question of direct nominations is likely to enjoy in the legislature of 1910 that but one member of this year committee on election laws on the part of the house will return to the lower branch next year, and that one is a democrat—Rep. Martin P. Conley of Lowell. Thus Speaker Walker will have an entirely new committee to construct and its construction will not be one of the easiest tasks to confront him in making up the committees of next year's house. This year's committee on the part of the house was composed of Reps. Garcelon (chairman), Burr, Cutting, Walsh, Bouvier, Paige, Arnold and Conley, the last two being democrats. Reps. Garcelon, Burr, Paige and Arnold retire voluntarily. Rep. Cutting was forced out by rotation system. Rep. Walsh is a candidate for the upper branch, while Rep. Bouvier went down to defeat in the caucuses. Of the senate members—Sens. Rockwood, Morse and Spalding—only Sen. Morse retires.

Election laws has come to be one of the leading committees of the house, and next year there will be none more important from a political standpoint. For that reason Speaker Walker is likely to select some unusually strong men for the committee. It looks as if on direct nominations will come the big fight of the next session. With "Billy" Garcelon out of the way the advocates of direct nominations start with an advantage as they have several able leaders while a political leader of Garcelon's ability is still to be found to head the opposition. Editor Langtry of the Springfield Union, whose advocacy of direct nominations is the sole reason for his bad standing with the state machine, is apt to play a prominent part in the direct nominations fight as a member of the house. A. was suggested the other day that he be made house chairman of election laws and Arthur Nason senate chairman. Neither is likely to land on the committee, judging from the care with which it was made up this year, but both can be depended upon to be heard on the floor of their respective branches on the subject."

Described by Mrs. Doten at St. Paul's

A pleasing entertainment was held in St. Paul's church vestry last evening, under the direction of Mrs. Clark Glidden and the members of the Philathea class. The feature of the entertainment was an interesting paper by Mrs. Chester W. Doten of Worcester on the tribal characteristics and customs of the Indians in America.

Mrs. C. F. Richardson sang unaccompanied a number of Indian songs of chants used on various occasions, and their significance was explained in reading by Mrs. Fred Matthews. Mrs. Doten has made a study of the different tribes and has a rare collection of relics, many of which were exhibited. She has a genuine Navaho blanket, the mate of which has been valued at $1000. As a child she has personal recollections of Chief Sitting Bull and Rain-in-the-Face, and has a number of interesting autographs of Indian braves.

Mrs. Doten is something of an enthusiast in her cherishing of Indian relics and legends, and she opens her paper with the declaration that "In the beginning the Indians were here." She has a pretty theory that instead of America having been first discovered as we have been taught to believe, as far back as the days of King Solomon, that mighty ruler's ships came to the shores of what is now America and carried great wealth to the monarch's kingdom from these shores; also that it was these voyagers who implanted in the minds of the Indians their vague ideas of the "Great Spirit." She finds confirmation of this theory in Josephus the Jewish historian, who records that the Phoenician Euboran made long voyages, including in three years.

DOUGLAS CO.
MAY TAKE ITS BUSINESS BACK TO BROCKTON
BROCKTON, Oct. 22.—Immediately following the action of the members of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union in ratifying the settlement of the long-existing controversy with the Douglas Shoe company, came the announcement last night of the closing of two Douglas shoe factories in other places so that it is believed the company has already begun preparations to bring part of its business back to Brockton. One of the Douglas factories in Marlboro and another in Haverhill were closed permanently yesterday and the work of removing the machinery was begun at once. In Marlboro it was given out that the 3000 hands in the closed shop would be given employment for the most part in another of the company's factories in that town. In Haverhill 300 operatives are thrown out of work by the shut down. Some may be transferred to the Brockton factory.

The other factories in Nashua, N. H., and Springfield, Me., to which the business was removed at the first of the present year as a result of the company's disagreements with the Boot and Shoe Workers' union have not received orders to close. It is understood that in Brockton the output of the Douglas plant at first will be 3500 pairs of shoes a day. Formerly the output was 20,000 pairs a day.

THE PRESIDENT

Paid Visit to the Town of Taft

GREGORY, Texas, Oct. 22.—President Taft had his education as a ranchman further enhanced yesterday by another afternoon of sight-seeing on the practical side of things. Starting from La Quinta at 3 o'clock the president motored over to Taft, 11 miles away, to visit the town which gave him its unanimous vote in the election last fall, and in the school-house there he made a little speech of thanks and congratulation to his brother's farm hands. On the highway to Taft the president stopped at the cotton gin and watched its operation with much interest. There he saw for the first time a steam plow, at work in the fields. Next the president was taken to the creamery, where he ate a dish of ice cream and just before going to the schoolhouse he had a look at the abattoir, which was not in use, however.

During the morning the president played 18 holes of golf with Robert Connelly of Austin, the reputed champion of Texas, who laid out the links of the Taft place. The president invited Mr. Connelly down to get a beating. But the young Texan led his distinguished opponent from the very first hole. Today the president will break his four days' vacation long enough to go over to Corpus Christi on the revenue cutter Winona to speak before the Inland Waterways association. He will return to La Quinta early enough in the afternoon to have a final game of golf before leaving at 3.10 p. m. for Houston and Dallas.

At the school house at Taft yesterday afternoon the president in speaking of farming, said:

"The country seems to be taking on a new development with reference to the agricultural products necessary to feed the people. It is taking this on because everything that the farmer produces is most expensive to buy. He gets the highest prices today that he ever has in the history of the country and therefore, everyone who is looking forward to making a decent living in considering the question whether he has in him the elements of a good farmer, for there is no doubt that, taken as a class, the farmers are the most contented, the best situated, have the best homes and the best prospects of any class in the community. The high prices of agricultural products of farming have attracted attention to the development of these fields that were supposed at one time to be useful only for cattle raising and now you are bound to make this whole southern Texas the garden spot of the entire state. The future, it would seem, has no limitations in respect to what can be done with this soil with proper agricultural appliances."

Old Man, 72 Years of Age, Cured by Dr. Taylor's Remedy

A few weeks ago the windows of the drugstore in my locality were filled with your remedy, and I exclaimed, "Oh, ah, Yes! Another humbug! Still I shall try it," and immediately purchased a set of one of my druggists. I have used but one box of Ointment, one bottle of Purifier and one-half bottle of Lotion, which has proved its efficacy in the most remarkable manner.

EX-GOV. GUILD

Is Not a Candidate for Senator

LYNN, Oct. 22.—"May I say that I am not now and never expect to be a candidate for the United States senatorship or any other public office," said former Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., during a speech at a republican mass meeting in Odd Fellows hall last night. Continuing to discuss criticisms evoked by his speech on the tariff at Worcester early in the week, former Gov. Guild said:

"I see no reason why any republican should fear to admit, as President Taft freely stated, that the new tariff is susceptible of improvement.

"If this election is to be settled on the tariff issue," he went on, "every shoe town in Massachusetts in common decency should go by republican action for the new tariff, whatever else may be said of it, makes hides absolutely free."

Gov. Eben S. Draper, Lieut. Gov. Frothingham and Congressman George P. Lawrence of North Adams were speakers at the meeting.

Gov. Draper discussed his veto of the eight hour bill, and referring to the automobile tax bill passed by the last legislature, said that it would furnish annually $200,000 to the state for good roads.

Lieut. Gov. Frothingham extolled the administration of Gov. Draper, and said that the latter's business methods had saved the state $1,000,000 during the past year.

Congressman Lawrence discussed the tariff bill, declaring it one of the best tariff measures ever enacted.

MAN DECAPITATED

He Was Struck by a Train

LYNNFIELD CENTRE, Oct. 22.—Joseph Viles, 80 years old, a farmer living on the road between West Peabody and this town, was instantly killed and decapitated near here yesterday noon by a train from Boston on the Newburyport branch of the B. & M. railroad.

Mr. Viles left home with a horse and wagon to go to the woods for a load of wood. He had fastened his horse in the woods not far from the railroad. Going back across the railroad track he was struck and run over by the train.

He was deaf and his eyesight was poor and the road is very tortuous at that point. Neither the engineer nor any of the crew of the train that ran over him knew anything about the accident. The body was not discovered until an hour later when the crew of an inward bound train saw it alongside the track.

Besides being decapitated Mr. Viles had been hurled thirty feet from the spot where he was struck. His aged wife during the afternoon went in search of him. Seeing a crowd beside the railroad she joined it only to find her husband's mutilated body.

The body was taken to his home. The couple had no children. Mr. Viles was uncle of J. H. Hewes of Lynnfield Centre and of Arthur Hewes of the firm of Hewes & Tupper of Boston.

LIVELY BLAZE

STARTED FROM SPARK FROM A LOCOMOTIVE

HULL, Oct. 22.—A spark from a locomotive early last night set fire to the wooden railroad bridge over the Ware river at Nantasket on the line of the Nantasket beach railroad, and the fire raged until after midnight because the apparatus was unable to reach the bridge.

The firemen, however, went out to the burning bridge from Hingham and Hull and worked for hours. The fire burned along the edges of one side of the bridge and destroyed about 30 feet of the structure.

Shortly after midnight, when the fire was extinguished, workmen at once began to repair the damage. The work will be finished so that the early morning trains can safely be run over the bridge.

WOMAN'S GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

BROOKLINE, Oct. 21.—The British women golfers, including the new American champion, Miss Dorothy Campbell of North Berwick, visited the recently improved links of the Country club today, accompanied by a number of the members of the Boston Women's Golf association. The British players are making a tour of the Boston links, having played in a foursome at Oakley yesterday. It is expected that they will look over the Wollaston course tomorrow and on Monday attack the premier American links at Myopia, where President Taft played this summer.

No tournament was arranged for today, but after playing the course at the Country club this forenoon it was expected that there would be a team match between the foreigners and Boston players this afternoon.

TEACHERS MEETING

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 22.—Educators of this and two other states addressed the New Hampshire State Teachers' association at the opening sessions of its annual convention in this city today. Cole, director of music in the schools of Brookline, Mass., were among the visiting speakers, while there were addresses by several college professors and school teachers of this state.

Are You Half Sick?

Just sick enough to feel heavy headed, lazy and listless, to have no appetite, to sleep badly; just sick enough to feel restless and nervous, and to have what you eat feel like lead in your stomach; not sick enough to take to bed or call a doctor, but just sick enough to not know what to do.

Ninety-nine times out of one hundred these symptoms are all caused by the stomach, bowels, liver and digestive organs. Now, all this can be remedied in one night by taking Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills.

Anyone suffering from chronic constipation, biliousness, sick headache or liver complaint can tone up the entire system, elevate the spirits and again make life really worth living by a single week's use of Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills. You will have a good appetite and sleep well. They are Nature's laxative, entirely different from anything you have ever taken before. Physicians use and recommend. They form no habit. You should always keep them on hand. These little Vegetable Pills will ward off many ills.

COLLECTOR LYMAN

Is to Retire From His Position at Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—Definite announcement was made by Senators Lodge and Crane last night of the contemplated program in regard to the positions of collector of customs and U. S. sub-treasurer at Boston.

Hon. George H. Lyman, collector of the port, although promised a reappointment, declines the proffer and announces his retirement from the position at the end of his present term next April.

Hon. Edwin U. Curtis, who at present is U. S. sub-treasurer, will be recommended for the position of collector of the port by the two Massachusetts senators.

Col. Geo. H. Doty of Waltham, chairman of the republican state committee, will be recommended by the two Massachusetts senators to succeed Mr. Curtis as U. S. sub-treasurer at Boston.

The correspondence regarding the collectorship was given out last night by the two senators.

Mr. Lyman assumed the office April 1, 1898, and has held it longer than any of his predecessors. He now proposes to retire at the end of 12 years' service, for "personal reasons." His term has still five months to run.

The letter to Mr. Lyman from Senators Lodge and Crane, acknowledging his resignation of another term, states that ex-Mayor Curtis, now assistant treasurer of the United States, in the Federal building, is to be recommended for executive appointment to succeed Mr. Lyman, and that Col. Geo. H. Doty, for nearly three years past chairman of the republican state committee, is to be recommended to succeed Mr. Curtis at the sub-treasury.

DEPTS. SHORT HEALTH AND STATE AID NEED MONEY

City Auditor Fudge has submitted a report to Sept. 30, inclusive, which shows that the city is $335,448.29 from the debt limit. Loans authorized during the year were as follows:

Paving Streets $64,000.00
Sewer Construction 56,000.00
Repairs on Buildings 12,000.00
Pawtucket Boulevard 8,000.00
Little Canada Park 2,000.00
Fire Dept. Apparatus 17,000.00
New Highland School 12,500.00
Rebuilding Cabot st. Bridge 2,500.00
Total $172,000.00

The report shows that the state aid office and the health department are in need of money. Under wages in the health yard there remains $4683.19, and under expenses of the health yard $2429.31. The school department will not have to ask for more than $4000 or $5000 to carry it through the year.

FOOTBALL GAME

HIGH SCHOOL TO MEET FAST BOSTON TEAM TOMORROW

The Lowell high school eleven will meet the fast Boston English football team on the gridiron at Spalding park tomorrow afternoon in what promises to be the best game of the season. The local eleven after its excellent performance last Saturday against the Boston Latin demonstrated the fact that it is good enough to travel in the fastest company in the scholastic leagues.

Yesterday afternoon saw some brilliant practice at Spalding park. The boys were put through strenuous work, including some of the rudimentary matters as well as the lineup and scrimmages. They worked well, fast and hard, and will put up a strong front against the English high boys on Saturday. It is to be an important game. If the Lowell boys can maintain their record of not having been beaten this season, they will be in fairly good shape to move forward to the Lawrence game and win that. It is going to take some real football, however, and the boys need the encouragement of large crowds of rooters.

Maker & McCurdy CORSET SHOP

204 Merrimack Street

The Corset Event of the Season

Next week will be given over entirely to our Fall Corset Opening. As a line which is notable for the scope and class of the corsets shown, there is none that we can recommend in the unqualified terms that we do.

THE Gossard CORSETS

They Last in Shape.
Madam Kaufman

an expert corsetiere, trained in the Gossard "New School" of corset design, will be in attendance to show the superior features of Gossard front-laced corsets.

We extend a cordial invitation to every woman who is interested in the corset styles for fall, to meet Madame Kaufman and discuss the corset question with her. If, in the past, you have had any doubts as to the corset which would do the most for your figure, a fitting with one of the Gossard models will put them to rest. If you have never worn a Gossard you have yet to learn what the perfect corset union of beauty and hygiene means to the wearer.

There is a model for YOU. Exactly right for YOU. Be fitted to it and you will be delighted with the results. Gossard corsets give the supple figure and the long, lithe lines demanded by the season's fashions. They support instead of depressing the abdominal organs, that is why physicians recommend them. They impart the classic, sculptured back. Anyone who knows the Gossard corset can tell the Gossard wearer by the back, at a glance.

The front-lacing is convenient and sensible. You can stand before your mirror and adjust your corset while you are putting it on.

This season's Gossard models are the product of the "New School" of corset design, which means that every seam, gore and bone is adjusted with that precision which is necessary in adjusting the balance wheel of a fine watch. Gossard corsets are made of the finest materials. Every detail is as nearly perfect as human ingenuity will permit. The materials are selected with great care for their texture, strength and the Gossard corset will outwear two or three ordinary corsets.

All Gossard corsets are boned with "ELECTROBONE," the basis of which is the highest quality high-carbon trade mark non-breakable, clock-spring steel, perfectly flat and resilient; guaranteed rust-proof, and the best boning material used in corsets at any price.

Although Madame Kaufman will be here all next week, we advise you to come Monday if you possibly can.

JEFFRIES ARRIVES

Says He is Ready to Meet
Jack Johnson

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—James J. Jeffries reached this city today, being a passenger aboard the steamship Lufitania. He was immediately interviewed by a number of reporters and told them that he was in the best of condition and anxious to meet Jack Johnson for the heavyweight championship of the world. "Smilingly, the former champion answered the volley of questions directed at him by the newspaper writers.

"How did I get into shape?" It seems the newspapermen have me with a lot of fat on me. I didn't have much fat on me when I went away and I haven't now." And to emphasize the point Jeff seized a substantial part of his vest in his hand to show how small his waistline had grown.

"Now at Carlebad I did ten miles on the road every morning," continued the former champion, "and in the afternoon I put in my time in the gymnasium.

slums. The Germans thought I was crazy when they saw me running along the highways. They don't know anything about boxing.

"I did some more work in France and trained at a place just out of the city of Paris. I had to look at the address on a card every time I went out there to work on the roads. The French are crazy over fighting and I saw some bouts there. I also took in some of the exhibitions at the National Sporting club at London, but the advertised heavyweight contests are nothing more than middleweight affairs.

"I have done no boxing while abroad," Jeffries said he would undergo an operation on his nose in a few days while in this city.

"I would have had it done in Germany, but they told me there that the doctors here could do it just as well and again the price they wanted was something fearful. My nose is broken and it interferes with my breathing."

Jeff said that he had talked to no one while abroad about his fight with Johnson, and denied that he had said that he wanted a purse of $150,000 for the roll.

Mrs. Jeffries accompanied her husband on the trip and spent some time at her home in Saxe-Meinigen.

Jeffries will probably meet Jack Johnson and his manager in this city early next week when the final articles for the fight will be signed. Last August in Chicago Sam Berger for Jeffries signed a preliminary agree-

BODY POSITIVELY IDENTIFIED

FALL RIVER, Oct. 22.—All doubt which has existed as to the identity of the girl whose dismembered body was found along Bulger marsh road in Tiverton was dispelled this afternoon when District Attorney James Swift made the announcement that Mrs. Amelia St. Jean of Woonsocket, R. I., had positively identified the body as that of her missing daughter, Amelia.

The district attorney also said this afternoon that as a result of the autopsy held yesterday he can see no reason why the charge of murder against "Prof." Frank Hill should be changed.

Prof. Whitney of Harvard university reported this afternoon that he is now positive that carrots were not included in the girl's last meal.

EUGENE N. FOSS

Here's the Situation
Mr. Voter:

Candidate for Lieut. Gov.

The Republican party is divided. Its best element is disgusted with Party Bosses and Broken Pledges. Strong men claim their right to think and act for themselves. They see in the Democratic Platform for 1909 the principles they are willing to fight for. They see in James H. Vahey and Eugene N. Foss the men who, can carry that fight to success.

That's why thousands of Republicans are for Vahey and Foss, as will be seen when the votes are counted on November 2d.

Vahey and Foss stand for TARIFF REDUCTION which will increase the commerce of Massachusetts and the nation; reform which will protect the rights of the East without offending the West; reform which will start the shops and factories of this state humming; reform which will not be throttled by the Republican Machine; reform which will reduce the cost of living and result in real benefit to the working man and his family.

Mr. Foss knows from practical experience of nearly 30 years, as a manufacturer and an employer of labor, the baneful effects of high tariff on New England exports and imports. Mr. Foss will fight for tariff reduction that will mean a full dinner pail for the working man, more comforts in his home and better clothing and shoes for his wife and children.

Vahey and Foss believe in CANADIAN RECIPROCITY which will give us such raw materials as lumber, coal, iron and wood pulp at lower prices; reciprocity which will increase our own food supply and make it possible for American operatives to remain in their own home towns without struggling to make both ends meet; reciprocity which shall say, "Live and let Live" to Canada and augment friendly relations with our Canadian neighbors.

Vahey and Foss favor an INCOME TAX which will work justice to all and have no friends in high places; an income tax which will not descend on the head of the professional man while ignoring the tax dodger who goes to Europe before the assessors are due; an income tax which will reduce the cost of living by reason of reduced tariff taxes and place the burden where it rightfully belongs.

Mr. Voter, Speak out with your ballot. Give no aid, either directly with your vote or by your silence, to the misguided and unjust administration of the Lodge-Draper machine. Get out from under despotism and corruption by voting for the platform of Integrity and Progress.

SWEEPING CHARGE

Made by Counsel at Hearing on Liquor Case

Lawyers Crowley and Donahue Allege Deliberate Attempt to Take Away Certain Licenses and Issue Them to Others

The cases of Andrew P. Roach & Co., of 56 Bridge and 105-109 French streets, and John J. Brennan, of 462-467 Middlesex street, who were charged with violating the conditions of their common victualler licenses by the temporary police board, named by the mayor, were heard before the members of the board of police at a special session held last night.

The law relating to common victuallers was quoted at considerable length and interpreted by counsel for the respondents.

The Roach Case

The first case taken up, was that against Mr. Roach. Sgt. Thomas R. Atkinson, of the liquor squad, was the first witness called by Supt. Welch. He testified in part as follows:

"I visited Mr. Roach's saloon on July 19th in company with Mr. MacBrayne and Officer Palmer. I asked for Mr. Roach and a bartender told me that he was in New Bedford. I told him that we would like to look over the food supply. I asked him if he was in charge and he said that he was at that time.

An examination of the place showed that the food supply consisted of two cans of corned beef, two cans of sardines, six cans of Campbell's condensed soup, four cans of cream, three cans of turkey soup, one can of tomato broth, one can of raspberries, one can of peas, two boxes of Uneda biscuits, one package of oatmeal, one can of lard, some cheese and butter.

"There was a gas stove which was connected with a pipe and was in working order. There were also some cooking utensils on the premises.

Robert J. Crowley, who appeared for Mr. Roach, stated in opening the cross-examination, that he would like to examine the reports of the liquor officers made relative to this saloon during the month of June of this year. The records of the inspectors were later produced and were introduced by the defense to show that the condition of affairs which existed in July was similar to that which existed in the previous month when the regular police board was in charge of affairs.

Ordered by MacBrayne

On cross-examination Sgt. Atkinson said that he had been ordered to go to Roach's saloon by Mr. MacBrayne. He said: "Mr. MacBrayne told me that he wanted to visit the saloon for the purpose of looking into the common victualler's license. He said that his principal object was to see what food there was in the saloon. I did not file any report with my superior officers relative to this place

TEN YEARS OF SCALP ERUPTION

Tiny Pinhead Pimples Filled and Hurt Tremendously—Tried Everything in Vain—His Daughter's Scalp was Crusted—Both Found

SIMPLY SURPRISING CURE IN CUTICURA

"It is a great pleasure for me and I consider it a duty to inform you what Cuticura has done for me. About twelve years ago, I contracted an eruption of the scalp consisting of small pimples, about the size of a pinhead, which filled after a few days with pus and which hurt tremendously. I tried everything, but in vain. Finally, I washed my head with sulphur and applied a carbolic ointment. After a few days the pimples disappeared, only to come back again in a week. This I suffered for ten years and then I saw an advertisement in the paper of the wonderful cures by Cuticura. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and a bottle of Cuticura Pills and after three weeks I had used only half the Soap and Ointment and my head was as clean as ever before. After the first application it was simply surprising how it improved.

"My daughter used Cuticura Soap and Ointment for scurf on the scalp and after having used them three times her head was clear and the hair became as soft and fine as silk. Since then she uses nothing but Cuticura Soap for shampooing.

"In consequence of my having used Cuticura Soap for shampooing, I noticed that my hands which almost always were cracked from handling undressed wood, lime and stone, became white and velvety. Formerly I used glycerine, but one night's treatment with Cuticura Soap and Ointment does more for my hands than a week's treatment with glycerine. I hope all suffering people will at least try the Cuticura Remedies. Herman Becker, Philadelphia, November 8, 1908."

Millions of women throughout the world use Cuticura Soap and Ointment for itching, chafing, irritations, eruptions, chafing, pimples, blackheads, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, itching, and all skin troubles. It is the most effective, antiseptic, cleansing, and soothing, both and sure.

any stranger or traveler who asked and was refused food?"

"No, sir."

"You don't believe in the sale of liquor?"

"I do not."

"Do you believe in the maintenance of places of this character?"

"If it is the majority favor it."

"Did you ever vote for license?"

"Not very often."

Mr. Brennan was called and in answer to a question put by Mr. Donahue as to whether or not he remembered the visit of the "theater" commissioner on July 19, he replied in the affirmative. He said that he never refused any person who asked for food. He said that he was ready and willing to supply people who ordered food.

Mr. Donahue then introduced a charge of Judge Bell pertaining to the common victualler law, which reads as follows:

"They (the qualifications) are in effect that the applicant must be prepared to keep an eating lounge. This may vary from a complete restaurant which can furnish the same food which would be furnished by an inn, and which only differs from the inn in not having lodgings, to the place which may only give sandwiches and coffee. If the applicant is prepared to furnish in good faith some actual food to all strangers who apply, he may be considered a common victualler. The fact that he expects other advantages from his license, and would not have asked for it except for them, is not material, if he really intends to do a victualler's business. For instance, he may desire a liquor license of one of the first three classes."

Mr. Donahue then concluded his argument with the following statement:

"I argue the facts of the length that I have as well as stating the law as it is."

daily as it is the people of Lowell who know the narrow escape from the hands of the commissioners. Those fatal mistakes made near working great injury to people who had paid a large sum of money for a privilege that was well-nigh destroyed by their ignorance of facts and law, and I trust that this may serve as a warning to the electorate that in the future they may so vote with right reason that men may not be induced into office to the destruction of the people's rights and privileges."

The board then took the two cases under advisement.

Testified at the Musick Trial

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—William V. Hutchinson, an assistant weigher of the United States customs house, testified today at the trial of Antonio and Philip Musick, charged with defrauding the government on importations of cheese, that he received on one occasion about $500 from Philip Musick for shortening the weight on a consignment.

"I was particularly careful to see that I got all that was coming to me," the witness said.

explained that he had been promised immunity to tell the truth and told he would be kept in the employ of the government though not in his present position.

"Did you go to others to get money under such circumstances?" he was asked.

PRIVY COUNCILLOR DEAD

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—Privy Councillor Albert Meissner, principal private secretary to Emperor William through-out the latter's reign, died during the night. From the first of his illness the emperor inquired daily regarding his faithful servant and today he telegraphed to the widow saying that he wished her to know how much he missed Meissner. The Distinguishing Features of Merrimack

$15 Overcoats

QUALITY---STYLE---FIT
ESPECIALLY QUALITY

The Merrimack has always been famous for the QUALITY of its Overcoats at this popular price. This year, even in the face of a tremendous advance in price of materials, we insisted that the QUALITY of our goods must be maintained. This meant extra cost to us, but we have spent too much time, money and skill to establish the Merrimack standard, to see it lowered now. We realize that we must sell more Overcoats to make this policy a paying one—but we depend on the wisdom and foresight of our customers and especially those who have been in the habit of wearing Merrimack $15.00 Overcoats. To them we say—that the Merrimack $15.00 Overcoats represent this year The Best and Closest Selling Overcoat on the Market at the Price.

Compare Merrimack Overcoats with those of any or all other stores. Make a careful comparison of the fabric that goes into each, notice the careful and painstaking way that Merrimack Coats are tailored. IN EVERY CASE you'll find that Merrimack $15.00 Overcoats far overshadow other kinds in style, quality, workmanship and fit.

For the young fellows we have a liberal and varied assortment of Fancy Overcoats—garments brimful of style and good taste. For the older man and young man of quiet taste, we have the staple kind, Refined and dressy.

Over twelve different styles in Young Men's Fancy Overcoats, covering half a dozen models, some cut on the lines of the regular three-quarter length with regular lapels, others cut button to the neck, military style and 52 inches long. Then we have the much desired IMPERIAL COAT cut 52 inches long and can be worn four different ways, viz: turned down lapels, buttoned up military style, and buttoned to the neck with one lapel turned down, and buttoned to the neck with both lapels turned down, displaying collar and tie.

All these coats are hand tailored throughout, having hand felled collars, hand-made buttonholes, the canvas used being pure linen, never found except in high priced garments. The linings are made of wool serge that will wear like iron and material of the coats are strictly all wool chevrons and velours, in gray, olive and dark mixtures.

THE DEMOCRATIC OUTLOOK.

The democratic leaders in this campaign are becoming more confident of overcoming the republican majority on election day. It is pointed out that last year Mr. Draper received 228,318 votes and Mr. Vahey 168,162, a plurality of over 60,000 for the republican candidate. The Independence league had a candidate in the field who received 23,101 votes, and these, it is expected, will vote for Mr. Vahey in this election. This will cut down the republican plurality a great deal and the opposition of the labor unions to Draper's candidacy should help to wipe out that plurality. Messrs. Vahey and Foss are making a very vigorous fight for success and it would benefit the state in various ways should they score a victory at the polls in November. Republican bossism, republican extravagance and the republican lobby on Beacon hill have taxed the patience of the people to the limit, and a change of administration that would put honest and level-headed men in office could not fail to bring good results.

THE CANADIAN NAVY.

The war scare in England and the talk of danger to the empire have caused Canada to undertake the construction of a navy to cost $20,000,000. Professor Goldwin Smith makes a strong protest against this proposed outlay for warships at a time when there is no danger of attack at any point, no encroachment on the maritime interests of Canada, and no prospect of trouble unless she makes it.

With such a navy a colony like Canada three thousand miles away from the seat of empire, will soon become imbued with the spirit of independence and will want to cut loose from England altogether. The Australian colonies will probably do the same after they shall have built their navy, so that after all this talk about a colonial navy for imperial defence is not calculated to strengthen the empire or increase the loyalty of the colonies.

THE QUESTION OF VERACITY INVOLVED.

There is a question of veracity to be settled between Governor Draper and Eugene N. Foss. The governor asserts that Mr. Foss wrote him a letter advising him to veto the eight-hour bill but this Mr. Foss stoutly denies and he challenges the governor to produce the letter or a photograph of it.

The governor has produced the letter purporting to be addressed to His Excellency by the B. F. Sturtevant company, E. N. Foss, treasurer. That is not the usual way to sign any letter of the kind, and while the governor may have received such a letter it may not have been written by Mr. Foss or his company. The mention of Mr. Foss' name as treasurer at the bottom of the letter does not seem to have been intended as a signature but merely as an indication that he was then the treasurer of the company appealing for the defeat of the bill.

We do not believe that the governor would deliberately make a false charge against Mr. Foss nor do we believe that had Mr. Foss written the letter, he would repudiate the document as emphatically as he does. There is a misunderstanding somewhere which the public would like to see cleared up.

THE NECESSITY OF PURE AIR.

All the reliable authorities agree that pure air is as necessary as pure food, and further that unless the human system is amply supplied with oxygen the combustion of the food cannot be properly maintained, and as a result the nourishment of the body would be deficient. The air outdoors is purified by rain and sunshine except continually contaminated with some foul odor such as gas emanating from sewers, smoke from chimneys or the odor of decaying animal matter from tanneries and other establishments such as the Rendering Works.

There seems to be room for considerable progress in the line of education in regard to the value and necessity of complete ventilation. The air in the homes unless changed continually by ventilation is usually charged with dust. The air outside unless on windy days when the dust rises from the streets, is usually more free from dust. The problem of fresh air in the home is one of great importance because it is a great factor in the maintenance of good health and the prevention of disease. Heated air being lighter than cool air rises and the cool rushes in to take its place; but there must be some opening connecting with the outer air in order that this exchange of fresh air for foul may be continuous.

What is known as foul odors that contaminate the atmosphere for a large area around a central point are but an emanation of atoms or minute particles from some decaying body. If the dead body of an animal were left above ground for a period of time, the flesh would eventually disappear through decay and the effusion of infinitesimal atoms sent out into the atmosphere in all directions. These atoms would constitute a foul and unhealthful odor because they contaminate the air which is taken into the lungs for the purification of the blood. If the air thus inhaled is not pure it cannot purify the blood, and the body is thus deprived of one of the most essential elements of health. Impure air is a mild poison, and while the injurious results may not be immediately apparent they are there nevertheless.

When Dr. Wiley, at Washington, conducted a series of experiments upon his poison squad, except in rare cases he did not notice any serious effects, but were the mild doses of poison to be long continued they would soon undermine the constitution and bring on disease. So it is with those who breathe impure air, whether the impurity be due to foul odors, dust or the smoke from factory chimneys.

One of the most important duties of the board of health in any city is to suppress foul odors. They may carry disease germs, but even if they do not, the fact that they render the air impure is sufficient argument in favor of their suppression. They act as a slow poison to the system.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Mrs. Dewey C. Bailey, president of the Denver Woman's club, has been honored by the State Woman's club of Colorado for the nomination for congress in the first district. Mrs. Bailey is the wife of the United States marshal of Colorado.

Rev. Edwin Hallock Byington, pastor of the Dane Street Congregational church at Beverly, announced to his people on Sunday that he had decided to accept the call to the South Congregational church at West Roxbury and he asked that his pastorate terminate at Beverly on Nov. 30.

From London comes word that Nat Goodwin has bought a musical play by C. M. S. McLellan and Ivan Caryll, in which he purposes to appear in America at mid-winter. "I am going back to a musical play," says Mr. Goodwin, "simply because the public demands it and my business is to please the public."

Rann Kennedy's plays are finding their way to the European stage. "The Servant in the House," as was inevitable after the air that it made in America, is soon to succeed "The Great Divide" in London, and his Icelandic tragedy, "The Winter Feast," which wearied audiences in New York, is announced for performance this winter at the Lessing theatre in Berlin.

Dr. Amy Tanner, formerly a professor at Wilson college, has been chosen to supervise the work of measuring and testing defective children at the Institute for Child Study, which has just been opened at Clark university, Worcester. The institute is to be devoted entirely to the study of children and will eventually have five departments, each supervised by an expert.

Mrs. Mary Conole is said to be the richest full-blooded Eskimo woman in the world. Though she can neither read nor write she had accumulated a large amount of wealth, consisting of mining property and the largest private reindeer herd in the world. Besides young reindeer there are said to be more than two thousand animals in the herd, all bearing her brand. Mrs. Conole employs as her private secretary an Englishwoman who is a graduate of Oxford. By Eskimo standards Mrs. Conole is the best dressed woman in the Arctic region.

Miss Lillian Carol has been selected to take Mrs. Mary E. Thon's place as superintendent of the restaurant for workmen which the National Civic Federation opened last spring in the Brooklyn navy yard. Miss Carol managed the lunch room in the McKinley high school of Chicago last year and declares that she finds catering to workmen much easier than to children. The chef and a few of the kitchen help in this restaurant are men, but the cashiers, waiters and assistants are women.

An Exhibition of the New Overcoats

From which there is much to learn. You are cordially invited to come here and see what is newest and what is correct in overcoat styles and materials for the present season. The best qualities, the best values, the correct styles and the best tailoring obtainable in ready-to-wear clothes, have given us a lead that grows greater each season.

OUR OVERCOAT EXHIBITION shows most decidedly how far in advance we are and how carefully we have kept in touch with public taste.

From our all wool overcoats for $10, up to the most expensive garments, every coat this season is made with hand felled collar, assuring a better fitting coat about the neck than it is possible to get in a garment machine finished. This is but one of many care-taking points in manufacturing, about which you could know nothing unless we told you—that helps to make our overcoat values unapproachable.

Men's Finely Tailored Overcoats

$10 and $15

The new half-box models, with long roll broad lapels, hand tailored, from two excellent shops. Fine kerseys, coatings and meltons, in blue, black, Cambridge gray and Oxford—finer fabrics than are shown by any clothing house in Lowell at anywhere near these prices. The style and character of these overcoats are quite equal to those for which you'll pay much more money. They are without question the best that we have offered for $10 and $15

Rogers-Peet's Overcoats

Rich, elegant, splendidly tailored, fitting perfectly, these superb garments are in every respect as satisfactory as the most exacting man can desire. Dr. Wullner reappeared in New York to begin his second American tour, before an audience that applauded him as ardently as did his hearers everywhere last winter. In no respect apparently, has he changed his ways or altered the impression that they make. "He had no more voice to offer than he had before," says the Times. "In fact, it seemed as if there were a little loss. Now had he any more of the purely vocal technique of the art in the management of his voice, and the attainment of essentially vocal effects, than before. His aims are all in other directions; and singing is a secondary affair in the artistic performance that he offers. That he seeks for an interpretation of the word, the essential character, the inner spirit of the songs with which he deals is unquestionably true; and it is true that such a point of view is an indispensable part of the highest interpretation. That his methods are guided often by a fine intelligence, a deep

DISCUSSED BY GEO. H. TAYLOR BEFORE BARACA CLASS

"How a young man can save money" was the subject of an interesting talk by George H. Taylor, before the Baraca class of the First Baptist church, last evening.

Mr. Taylor advised young men to begin early to save money systematically and to own their own homes and become interested in civil government and the care of property. He warned them against get rich quick schemes, and called attention to the rapidly with which money accumulates when it is saved systematically.

SEARCHING PARTIES DEATH EXPECTED

Looking for Husband, Wife and Three Children

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Oct. 22.—T. H. Kellogg, a rancher, while riding across the Mojave desert in the Carlsbad creek country yesterday, came across the tracks of two teams. The wandering trails indicated that the drivers either were lost or did not have control of mind left. He followed the trails and finally came on a camp wagon and a buggy and further away a horse dying of thirst. Here evidently was the starting point of a greater tragedy.

Following the trail farther he discovered the tracks of a man, a woman and three children. Uneven at times retreating and wavering in purpose as though the travelers did not know which way to turn, the footprints on the sand told of the search for water against a desperately growing need.

Sometimes the trail of one or another of the children disappeared indicating that the father or the mother had expended a last drop of energy in carrying their dying little ones. The trail followed the bed of a dry creek for many miles and then led off to that country from which few travelers return. Where the lost ones are is unknown. Kellogg returned to civilization and searching parties were started out at once, but no word has been received.

PRES. MURPHY

IS IN FAVOR OF A LONGER SEASON

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—President Murphy of the Cubs has put himself on record as favoring a longer season of baseball. The present season of 154 games begins April 15 and ends the first week in October, while the players are under contract from April 15 to Oct. 15.

"I can't say just how many games I would favor," he said, "but it seems to me that the season ought to be extended to cover the period the players' contracts cover."

Sen. McCarran in Very Critical Condition

SIMPLE FORMULA FOR HAIR TROUBLES

There are no better things known for treating the hair and scalp than the following: Refined soap, white of eggs, glycerine, Coclin, coconut oil and salicylic acid. The refined soap is used to cleanse the hair and scalp of dirt and impurities generally. The Coclin, coconut oil helps to make a profuse lather, and gives a beautiful silky gloss to the hair. The white of eggs loosens the dandruff and scales on the scalp, and is one of the finest things known for this purpose. Glycerine is a valuable thing in all skin troubles. It softens, soothes and heals the scalp, and its emollient properties are known to everybody. Salicylic acid is a destroyer of germs and bacteria. It is also one of the standard antiseptics, and prevents the "disagreeable" odors that are often found on the head and hair. Instead of going to the trouble and expense of securing these ingredients and mixing them yourself, buy Birt's Head Wash, the new scientific preparation, which is made exactly according to the foregoing formula. Birt's Head Wash keeps the pores of the scalp open so the hair follicles can secure proper nourishment. Ask your doctor about it. Price 50c. a jar, at all druggists.

...and that the patient, probably ... were given to stimulate his failing heart ... but with no success.

The condition of Senator McCarran was aggravated by his failure to retain consciousness and his inability to sleep. The hopes of the friends of the democratic leader of Brooklyn which have been alternately raised and depressed by reports of his improvements and then of relapses, were at a minimum when it was stated at the hospital that the patient was very weak and that an unfavorable turn developed during the night. The senator was never a man of great vigor and the drains of the past week on his vitality and endurance have left him without reserve power with which to fight a protracted siege of severe illness.

LAKE MOHONK CONFERENCE
MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., Oct. 22.—"Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Mohonk platform" were the themes under review today at the Mohonk conference. The speakers at the morning session who discussed the present and future of Porto Rico were Maj. Gen. Davis, U. S. A., formerly governor of Porto Rico and later governor of the Canal zone; R. Post who has just resigned the governorship of Porto Rico, William F. Willoughby, president of the executive council; Charles Hartsell, formerly secretary of state and Cayetano Culich of Man Juan, member of the Porto Rican house of delegates.

Meanwhile Medical Examiner Thomas F. Gunning was preparing his report in order that he may present it to District Attorney Swift as soon as possible. Dr. Gunning, Medical Examiner McGrath of Boston and Dr. John W. Coughlin of Fall River performed an autopsy upon the body which was examined first by Town Medical Examiner Stimson, who also attended this autopsy by request.

The search for the missing head by the police of Tiverton was practically abandoned today. "We have looked everywhere," said a prominent official of that department today. "We cannot see that we can do more. There are several volunteer citizens out along the Bulgermarsh road."

FOOTBALL PLAYERS WORK HARD FOR FAME

By TOMMY CLARK.
HOW many of those who witness the annual football games among the big universities are aware of the fact that no athlete works harder for the honor he gets than the moleskin warrior? There is no sport on the calendar in which an athlete can make quite so meteoric a rise as in football; but, while he has a shorter route to fame than any other knight of the muscle, there are but few who ever give a passing thought to the course of training that the boy has had to condition of his charges rest on the shoulders of the trainer. His word must be law, and the final law at that. When the players are on the field the trainer drops to secondary, the head coach taking first place. He alone instructs the men in the intricate science of the game, its plays, signals and tricks. The trainer, so far as the work of developing a team is concerned, is as if he did not exist.

Yet before the practice begins he tells the coach how much physical work he wants each player to do; he remains on the side lines to see that over. It is as important to keep a player in this state as it is to get him into it. A player who becomes "stale" is as useless almost on the football field as the novice.

In a certain western university, the football players are turned out of their beds by the trainer and his assistants around 6 o'clock. The men dress and in a few minutes are ready for a half hour's stiff exercise before breakfast. One morning this consists of going through the sitting up exercises of the army—a splendid movement for every part of the human system. The next

last year's reserve squad, the stars of the freshman squad of a year ago. Each one of them may have won a place in the heart of the head coach. All of these men, who number in hundreds at the big schools, have a slight bulge around the ambitious candidate, and before he gets a chance to win his letter he must have proved that he is better than each unit of these hard fighting hundreds. Sometimes there are as many as a dozen candidates for a single berth so closely matched in the game abilities or so well balanced in individual claims that start to the varsity sports team ranks. The law school at Ann Arbor has fresh sophomores and juniors entered in the annual intercollegiate elimination schedule. The dental college has three, and each of the three other departments—engineer, medical and law—has four short dozens and a dozen gross adorned squad. In contrast to the Wolverine varsity seven game schedule, these class teams play nearly every day of the autumn quarter, and twenty-three games are necessary to decide the premiership of the twenty-two teams. Formerly a round robin was played.

Even now, with the elimination system, few of the first round losers are spared until they have played the others down. About two years of this strenuous work grinds out some finished players, who put in strong claim for varsity jobs. At other schools class teams are almost as productive, and east and west many a late rising star has come from struggles for numerals.

undergo in order to become a hero in your own and the eyes of the fanatically cheering thousands that watch the game.

When one discovers the routine which a moleskin warrior goes through it is dollars to cents that admiration will grow apace for the lusty specimen of young manhood who for some sensational play is being lifted on the shoulders of his joyful college mates; for there is the training that would make a Spartan warrior win. For two months or more the football hero is in training every minute. As early as possible in the season he must become full of strength, agility, speed, endurance, and, above all, he must be taught the science of the game. It is the duty of the trainer to equip him with all the essentials except the last. That is the coach's task.

That he may perform his part of the work to the best advantage the trainer, whenever the college authorities will let him, gathers each and every gridiron player into a training or football house. No university which offers an advanced course in the strenuous gridiron game is without a house for the players. Although a football house usually holds, besides the trainer, from twenty-five to thirty players, several assistants to the trainer, a chef and a corps of waiters, there is only one mind in that house from the time it opens until the men break training at the season's end, and that is the trainer's.

All responsibilities for the physical

each does his allotted task, and if he discovers that any player is being worked too hard for any reason whatsoever he takes that man out of the game entirely or directs the coach to ease up on him, and the coach must do it.

Also as the men are injured the trainer rushes them to the gym—that is, provided no bones are broken or other serious injuries sustained.

Practice usually lasts for an hour and a half. In that time each man is instructed not only in team play, but in his own specialty, the object of it all being ultimately to make eleven units work beautifully as one. Sometimes the practice is discouraging, sometimes highly pleasing to coach and trainer and players alike.

For the first week of training each player, as a rule, will lose several pounds of flesh after practice. A fat man will get rid of seven or eight pounds, a man of average build a pound or less.

For several days following the first week of practice it is the rule of the players to put on from eight to ten pounds apiece; then as the training becomes more severe they drop back to normal and remain there throughout the rest of the season.

A chart of the weights is kept by the trainer, and by means of it he is greatly aided in determining the peculiarities of training that he needs to bring the player to the height of physical condition and to keep him there until his last football duty is morning it is calisthenics, perhaps, or the medicine ball, or a walk of two or three miles, finishing with a sprint of a hundred yards. Frequently there are punting and drop kicking by the kickers excused from the other exercise.

Once back at the football house, those men who have perspired freely rub themselves down, all dress for breakfast, and right on the minute set for it the meal begins. At the head of the varsity table sits the trainer. One of his assistants occupies a similar position at the college or scrub table, usually set in another room, and each handier serves to each player just as much food as the trainer thinks that player should have and no more. Three times a day the food is thus doled out, the portions being determined by the trainer's careful study of the young athlete's physical being. Thus many a player is kept from eating too much, and if the handier sees that a player is not eating what he should then steps are taken to provide him with an appetite.

Troubles of the Candidates.

Many of the country's best gridiron players enter college well skilled in the details of good work on the gridiron. This high water mark of proficiency attained by many leading preparatory and public high schools present university squads with numbers of promising material, but even the best of them work hard before they land a place on the team. Ahead is a horde of material that is so abundantly turned out from the ranks of only upon a trial in an actual game will the best of the twelve be able to show his superiority or the difference fast company will make in him.

Chief among the obstacles to the ambitious "possibility" ranks the candidate who comes to practice wearing a varsity initial. That letter looms up as big as the goal posts to the aspiring "would be," and it means practically all that it looks to him. It is seldom that a veteran is displaced by a newcomer and almost as rarely is the nerve found to make the hard fight. It is easier to enter the lists for another place not faded and run chance with the best of last fall's scrubs.

The regular has the advantage of his nine points' possession and must be outplayed by a wide margin before his inexperienced contender will be tried. Only one noteworthy case of such displacement is to be found in 1907 football, at Pennsylvania, where a saving of nine veterans influenced Torrey toward changes and gave the 1910 boys a chance.

Besides scrubs and regulars of last year's team and his fellow graduates of the freshmen eleven to beat, in many schools he finds well trained products of class teams in the running. At every big school these class team stars are a factor, and at some colleges an apprenticeship of this sort is considered necessary training. At Michigan, in the west, there is a team for every class in the school, and every year these eleven graduates skilled played.

Hard fights for recognition are not the football players' only troubles to be borne before he ranks as a stellar light. Even after his spurs are won a week's letdown may kill forever his chances on the team. Always the men he has passed are hot after him, aching for a single day's sickness to give them a chance to show in his place; where one bright play may influence the coach to change. Then practice starts early in the fall, and long before the games begin there have been weeks of hard training and bumps. Hours of quiz work soon are added to the afternoon practice, and signals and signals must be learned at odd times. What all this means in connection with the study of a hard college course has been well told by the number of tired bodies that have gone to education bankruptcy. I have seen a hardworking scrub come home to his frat house and drop asleep at 6 o'clock, too exhausted for even his dinner.

Quarterbacks, perhaps, have it worse than any other boys, for, as much brain as a football job requires now, the field general, even more, must have a head filled with football lore.

AN OLD BASEBALL TICKET.

Sledge Collier of Atlanta Has One Dated 1886.

Sledge Collier, one of the dyed in the wool fans of Atlanta, Ga., has a relic of baseball days gone by.

Like all baseball fans, Mr. Collier has a tad. This tad is saving tickets of the pennant winning Atlanta team, and he had in his possession a ticket of the pennant winning season of 1907. But this was not the real relic. He produced a ticket of the days when Atlanta first won a pennant. This was in 1886. This was during the old Southern league, before the present organization was founded in 1901. The ticket bore the following inscription: "Atlanta Baseball Club, 1886. No Money Refunded After Game Is Called. Admit One to Grand Stand."

PREDATORY HUNTING SPORT.

Los Angeles Man Suggests New Pastime to Save Game.

Sportsmen ought to devise some new hunting sport whereby carnivorous and destructive animals might be killed instead of the deer and birds, which do not prey on other animals and are harmless, says a prominent hunter in Los Angeles. Mountain lions, wildcats and coyotes are well worth hunting for the sport, and a bounty is paid for their slaughter. It is asserted by old hunters that these animals kill more game than all the hunters put together. If that is the case, it would not only be sport but a blessing to kill these animals. It would save the game and furnish the hunters excellent trophies. The skins of all the animals named, even the coyote, make excellent parlor adornments and may be mounted or made into rugs at comparatively small cost. Why not form a club to kill these animals in the off season? Prizes might be offered for the greatest number of kills.

WHAT IS AN AMATEUR?

Definition Is Different as Applied to Various Lines of Sport.

What is an amateur? All depends on what sport you are engaged in.

If a college athlete, you are not supposed to have ever contested for money, not even for a nickel offering by your grandpa when you were a kiddie of five.

SAMUEL SMITH, SENSATIONAL YOUNG PITCHER SECURED BY CINCINNATI NATIONALS.

When the Cincinnati Nationals recently secured the services of Samuel Smith of the Montreal baseball club for their pitching staff they outwitted a half score of other big league clubs that were anxious to get this new green diamond star. Smith, a native of New York city, is only twenty years old, yet his twirling ability has won him the praise of the veteran critics of the game. He pitched a tie game of sixteen innings against "Bugs" Raymond of the New York Nationals in an exhibition game. During his career with strong semiprofessional teams he engaged in seventy-three games, winning sixty-two and losing eight. The remaining three contests were ties. After a tryout by the Chicago Nationals he went to Montreal, which club sold him to Cincinnati for $7,000 and two other pitchers, Savage and Bagan. The Montreal fans declare him to be a second Rusie, owing to the tremendous speed of his delivery.

Forbes-Robertson Appears In New "Morality" Play by J. K. Jerome; "The Master Key" and Its Merits

[From Our New York Dramatic Correspondent.]
THE return of Forbes-Robertson to the stage of this country lends increased interest to the new dramatic season. "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," his new vehicle, is by Jerome K. Jerome and has the "morality" atmosphere which classifies the play with "The Servant in the House" and "A Message From Mars." "The Third Floor Back" is the title applied to the humble occupant of a back room on the third floor of a miserable Bloomsbury lodging house. He is none other than the Saviour. Obviously, then, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" is a play with a message, and this it voices distinctly

Little of Mr. Jerome's humor has percolated into the play, though there is a sort of lightness to the earlier scene in the Bloomsbury lodging house, with the familiar disputes about the length of the candles, the consistency of the milk, the disappearance of the landlady's whisky and other details of cheap and sordid life. But the people themselves are no mean and unsympathetic as to be an antidote to the humorous inclination even here.

The Symbolic Characters.

The author's description of his own characters is sufficient index of their natures. They are a cheat, a slave, a painted lady, a shrew, a bully, a snob, a hussy, a rogue, a cad, a coward and a satyr, each human enough to be recognizable at once without the subsequent labels he affixes and each typifying some form of selfishness and vice. Into this congregation, and first impressively revealed in a flash of light that illumines the opened door, enters the mysterious stranger, ultimately to be known to the other lodgers as The Third Floor Back on account of the chamber which he occupies and for which he unhesitatingly pays the grasping landlady as much as or more than she demands. His work in the house is to bring back to each of the inmates his last better self, and to each he appeals, and not in vain.

It is unfortunate for the more sustained interest in the play that the method of conversion must be the same in each case and that the formula of reformation must be repeated in every instance. The woman who paints her face, for instance, is commended for her lack of vanity and assured of her true beauty, whereupon she discards her make-up; the swindler is shamed into a new attitude by the ready acceptance of his lies on the part of his intended victim; the sensualist is suddenly convinced of his own chivalrous good intentions by the other's faith in their existence. And so it goes on throughout. But though the means are unvarying and the results more prompt and certain than might seem possible in life, the general effect of the exhibition is undoubtedly stimulating and wholesome.

Forbes-Robertson depicts the titular role with the poise and artistry that have come to be associated with his name.

"The Master Key."

"The Master Key," at the Bijou theater, has given Cosmo Hamilton a chance to combine two old themes, capital and labor and love, with decidedly pleasant results.

The hero is the young heir to a pseudo philanthropic manufacturer's great fortune, and the playwright sends him recognized into one of the homes of his employees to learn the real cause of the strike that brought him from his travels to take the reins dropped by his dead father. There the young man finds the master key to the situation, love, as embodied in the young schoolteacher of the little community.

As Drake, a supposed new clerk, the young ironmaster wins the girl's love, but is repudiated when his identity is revealed and he is known to be the man hated above all others of the workers because of his supposed indifference to the needs of his people. Upon this scene Mr. Hamilton and William A. Brady, the producer, have lavished much effort. A fourth act brings the play to its rather unusual and charming conclusion.

Orrin Johnson as the ironmaster gives prominence to his performance, while Miss Ring scores heavily throughout. Bennett Southard is capital in what

THE STORY OF PINERO'S "MID-CHAMBER."

One of the characters in Pinero's new drama, "Midchamber," a meddlesome family friend, gives the keynote of the whole play in the first act when he says: "About halfway between Folkestone and Bonlogne there's a boat—La Colombe. The French call it. We call it the ridge. I've known, I've never encountered that blessed shawl without a peculiarly unpleasant time. I've begun to feel drowsy, restless, out of sorts—bathin' myself and hating the man who's been starin' my cabin with me. But the sensation hasn't lasted long. Gradually the beastly motion has died down and in a quarter of an hour or so I've found myself pacin' the same deck arm in arm with the travelling companion I've been positively loathin' a few minutes earlier. My dear pals, there's a resemblance between that and marriage. The happiest and luckiest of married couples have got to cross that ridge. Sooner or later there's the rough and tumble of midchamber to negotiate. But it's soon over, well over, if only Mr. Jack and Mrs. Jill will understand the situation, if only they'll say to themselves, 'We're on the ridge; we're in midchamber; in another quarter of an hour the boat'll be steady again!'

This, then—this ridge or shoal so often reached in marriage—is what Sir Arthur has based his drama upon. He shows a well to do English couple, a Mr. and Mrs. Blundell, who have grown tired of each other. Theo Blundell buries himself in his business. Zoo cultivates smart friends, smokes cigarettes and has nice boys to tea every day. She calls them her tame robins, particularly Leonard Ferris, who is described by the family friend, Peter Mottram, as "an unmanly young cub who has a nice head of hair."

They quarrel over the plans of a trip to Paris, which they have arranged on Peter's advice, so that they can get away together and patch up their difficulties. The trip falls through, and Theo leaves the house in a rage and takes a flat of his own, while Zoo goes to Italy.

Meanwhile Theo has formed a too close friendship with a notorious woman. Peter tries to bring about a reconciliation, knowing both are wretched. Zoo finally turns against Leonard and tells him she will never see him again, and, acting on impulse, she goes to visit her husband. He, too, has just given his companion her cone, and he is after the first few moments of restraint honestly glad to see his wife and make terms with her. But instead of a reconciliation a quarrel occurs. He insults her, and she tells him she will marry her lover if he will help her to obtain a divorce. The last act is in Leonard's flat.
